To Prevent Hodge-Type Raids

Administration Bill to Reorganize Finance Dep't Introduced in House

Stratton Says Measure His Most Important

BULLETIN
SPRINGFIELD (U)—The Illinois House today passed Gov. William G. Stratton's anti-Hodge scandal bill to create a new department of financial institutions.

SPRINGFIELD (U)—An administration measure designed to reorganize the Finance Department to keep closer tabs on state spending was introduced in the Illinois House today.

The bill contained many of the recommendations of the Morey-Jenner report on the 2 1/2-million-dollar Hodge scandal, and was drawn to help prevent future Hodge-type raids on the state treasury.

Gov. William G. Stratton said the proposal "represents a major step in the reorganization of Illinois government."

Stratton said the proposed legislation was "one of the most important, if not the most important" proposal he has outlined to the Legislature.

The measure, along with a companion bill, would set up three divisions in the Finance Department, each headed by a superintendent. The divisions would be accounts, administrative services, and budgets.

The accounts division would be responsible for obtaining periodic financial reports from all state agencies, and would make procedural audits to "insure proper internal controls" in each state agency.

Other Measures Introduced

The administrative services division, a "housekeeping" agency, would control state purchases, the leasing of unused state property, the state office building in Chicago, state printing, and the state property control program now under the auditor's office.

The existing division of department reports, the public information agency under the governor also would be placed under the administrative services division.

The budget division would assist the governor in preparing the biennial budget for presentation to the Legislature.

John S. Rendleman, who assisted in drafting the proposal, was also one of the drafters of the Morey-Jenner report by former Auditor Lloyd Morey and Asst. Atty. Gen. Albert E. Jenner.

Rendleman said the measure generally followed the Morey-Jenner recommendations, except that the Morey-Jenner report asked for a separate department of administrative services rather than on the division level.

The reorganization plan would become effective July 1 if it is enacted into law.

In other legislative action, a bill was introduced to limit the amount of interest charges that can be levied by automobile dealers. The bill would limit "financing" charges to $8 a year on new cars, $11 a year on cars up to 2 years old, $14 a year on cars up to 4 years old and $16 a year on cars over 4 years old.

Sen. Clarence E. Sprinkle (R-Assumption) introduced another bill that would make daylight saving time mandatory throughout Illinois from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in September. Failure to go on daylight time would be a misdemeanor.

29th Awards Spectacle

Annual Presentation of Movie Oscars Will Be Held Tonight

HOLLYWOOD (U)—The Academy of Motion Pictures Arts and Sciences stages its 29th awards spectacle tonight to present "Oscars" for top achievements in films during 1956.

The event will originate in Hollywood and New York and will be carried by radio and television from 9:30 p. m. to 11:15 p. m. CST over NBC. (The program will be presented over WSIL, Harrisburg, beginning at 9:30 p. m.)

In Hollywood, filmdom's top personalities will convene at the RKO Pantages Theater to learn the results of the vote of the Academy's 1,170 members with comedian Jerry Lewis acting as master of ceremonies.

Actress Celeste Holm, winner of a 1947 award, will be mistress of ceremonies at New York's NBC Century Theater for presentation of the coveted "Oscars" to winners who are in the East.

Chief interest centered on the probable winners in the best actor, actress and picture categories.

Nominees for the best actor award were Yul Brynner for "The King and I," the late James Dean, "Giant," Kirk Douglas, "Lust for Life," Rock Hudson, "Giant," and Sir Laurence Olivier, "Richard III."

For the best actress, the nominees were Carroll Baker, "Baby Doll," Ingrid Bergman, "Anastasia," Katherine Hepburn, "The Rainmaker," Nancy Kelly, "The Bad Seed," and Deborah Kerr, "The King and I."

Nominated for the best picture were "Around the World in 80 Days," "Friendly Persuasion," "Giant," "The King and I" and "The Ten Commandments."

All five songs nominated for awards will be presented during the awards ceremony, with Bing Crosby singing on film his "True Love," generally rated as an almost certain "Oscar" winner. The others to be sung are "Julie," by Dorothy Dandridge; "Written on the Wind," by the Four Aces; "Whatever Will Be, Will Be," by Gogi Grant and "Friendly Persuasion" by Tommy Sands.

Rites Held at Dongola For Business Associate of Stelle

Funeral services were held Monday at Dongola for Grant L. Hughes, a business associate of John Stelle and brother of Carroll T. Hughes, past Grand Master of Illinois Masons.

Mr. Hughes was secretary-treasurer and executive assistant to the president of Arketex Ceramic Corporation, one of the larger Stelle enterprises, which has its plant and offices at Brazil, Ind. He was a native of Dongola, a member of a large family reared on a farm there, where his mother still resides.

Mrs. Paul Hays, State President, to Open WMU Convention at Herrin April 4

Mrs. Paul Hays of Harrisburg, state president, will open the Golden Jubilee Baptist W.M.U. convention at Herrin on April 4. The convention will be held April 4-5 at the First Baptist church in Herrin and the first session will open April 4 at 9:15 a. m.

Miss Dorothy Reed, Illinois Youth Secretary, will bring the first devotion.

Dr. George Sadler, secretary for Africa, Europe and the Near East, will speak at 10:20. Mrs. J. T. McRae, missionary to Gaza, will bring the closing message of the opening session.

In the afternoon session on April 4 Miss Alma Hunt, executive secretary of the W.M.U. of the Southern Baptist convention, will address the meeting on "Challenge of the World's Millions." Other Thursday, April 4, speakers will be Dr. Noel M. Taylor, executive secretary of the Illinois Baptist State Association, Mrs. R. W. Wallis, formerly of Harrisburg, and Miss Ruth O'Dell.

One of the features of the convention will be the presentation on Friday morning, April 5, of the Historical Tableau featuring the milestones of W.M.U. achievement in Illinois. Mrs. D. H. Hiller of

Mrs. Paul Hays

Harrisburg will direct the presentation.

Mrs. A. G. Rednour, state B.W.C. chairman, will preside at the B.W.C. banquet at 6 p. m. April 5. The banquet will be held in the dining room of the church. Miss Alma Hunt will bring the inspirational message in the closing service held in the church auditorium.

Julius C. Kern, Veteran Judge, Dies at Carmi

CARMI, Ill. (U)—Julius C. Kern, 80, a veteran lawyer and judge, died here Tuesday after a lingering illness.

Kern, who formerly had served 24 years as judge in the 2nd Circuit, had also served as White County judge and had practiced law for 46 years.

Survivors include his wife, Lena, a son, and two daughters.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Tells of Spending $85,000 on Items for Beck

Labor Consultant

Says Paid Bills,

Reimbursed by Union

WASHINGTON (U)—A Chicago labor relations consultant testified today that he spent $85,000 of Teamsters Union money on a host of items ranging from nylon hose to love seats for Teamsters boss Dave Beck and his son.

The consultant, Nathan W. Shefferman, told the Senate Rackets Committee he didn't know the $85,000 came out of the union treasury until income tax investigators discovered it had. He said he paid the bills, and as it turned out, was reimbursed by the union.

As Shefferman testified, the rudely-faced and rotund Beck waited in a chair a few rows away for a second appearance on the witness stand. Beck refused all day Tuesday to answer committee charges that he "may have misappropriated" more than $322,000 of union money. He invoked the Fifth Amendment's protection against self-incrimination.

Shefferman said he acted as Beck's purchasing agent because of their 20-year friendship. He did not consider it improper to do so while at the same time acting as labor consultant for firms having contracts with the Teamsters Union.

Will Answer in Court

But Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said he had "some information and evidence" that the union showed favoritism to Shefferman which employed Shefferman's services.

Highlights of today's session included:

—A statement by Beck to reporters that he expects to be prosecuted on income tax charges. He said that at that time all the questions he has refused to answer "will come before a court of law and will be answered freely."

—Another Beck statement, made during a recess in today's session, that Shefferman also made purchases for William Green, late AFL president, "and many others," because he was able to buy at discounts.

—The reading by Shefferman of a long list of items he bought for the Becks and his frank puzzlement over some of them, such as "kneedrawers" and "a watch for golf clubs."

In his talk with reporters Beck said he had not yet received an invitation to attend a meeting of the AFL-CIO executive council called for Friday to consider his use of the Fifth Amendment before the Senate committee. Beck also said he did not know whether he would attend the meeting.

Beck told newsmen he is for "the most stringent accounting" of union money and welfare and pension funds. But he conceded that the Teamsters Union bookkeeping "could be improved."

Charles Jordan, 35, Of Carrier Mills, Dies in Vet Hospital

Charles Jordan, 35, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Jordan of Carrier Mills, died at the Danville Veterans hospital yesterday. The body will be received at the Keathly funeral home today. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

President Eisenhower Hits Piecemeal Budget Cuts; Charges Foolish Economy

Local Merchants Offer Prizes on Harrisburg Days

Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week brings another event to Harrisburg that should be of utmost concern to the buying public of the Harrisburg trade area.

The event is known as Harrisburg Days, with merchants making extra special price cuts on quality merchandise and a free award being given on each of the three days.

The Thursday prize will be a man's or woman's complete wardrobe.

Friday some person will receive the choice of a diamond ring or a month's supply of groceries.

Then on Saturday the person to guess closest to the correct weight of a hog, which will be on display, will win the hog and his or her choice of processing the hog or six month free feed for the animal.

Here is how the free awards will be given out Thursday and Friday:

At each participating store there will be entry blanks to be filled out without obligation. These blanks will be collected each day and a drawing will be made at the end of the day's business.

Strangler of Divorcee to Rewed in Jail

COLUMBUS, Ohio (U)—Jackie Ray Lawson, 27, confessed strangler of a St. Louis divorcee, was to be remarried here today before returning to Missouri to face a grand jury in the slaying of Mrs. Credia Mallady, 29, Feb. 26.

Lawson and Geraldene Evans, 20, will be married in the office of Sheriff Ralph J. Paul. Lawson's previous marriage to Miss Evans was illegal because it took place before a divorce from his first wife became final.

Paul permitted the marriage to Miss Evans because the couple have a 6-month-old son.

Two St. Louis detectives were to come here today to return Lawson who has waived extradition.

Mrs. Mallady's body was found wrapped in a blanket and stuffed in a muslin bag in Big Darby Creek near here March 16. Lawson admitted after taking a lie detector test that he killed Mrs. Mallady with whom he had been living in St. Louis.

He said the victim had attempted to prevent his return to Columbus to Miss Evans. Lawson told authorities he went to St. Louis to look for a job.

He said Mrs. Mallady threatened him with a knife when he tried to leave and during the ensuing struggle he strangled her. He placed the body in the trunk of his car and drove to Columbus where, March 5, he dumped it into the creek.

Educator Dies Following Address

JACKSONVILLE, Ill. (U)—C. C. Byerley, Illinois educator, died Tuesday night of an apparent heart attack after delivering an address before the Illinois Association of School Boards.

Byerley, first assistant to State Superintendent of Public Instruction Vernon Nickell, had spoken in a panel discussion at the spring conference of the Abe Lincoln Division of the association.

Byerley had been superintendent of schools at West Chicago, before joining Nickell's staff in 1943.

Tragic Note

Deaths of Five Soldiers Mar Training Exercise

FT. POLK, La. (U)—The nation's biggest 1957 Army training exercise opened today on a tragic note. Four soldiers were killed in a series of accidents before "Operation King Cole" began and a fifth died of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Three of the deaths occurred in truck accidents and one soldier was mysteriously shot to death. The Army will test a new "pentomic" organization for airborne and infantry combat units on make-believe atomic battlefields and try out new ballistic missiles in the 21-day maneuvers in Texas and Louisiana involving 25,000 troops.

Pfc. Albert L. Cooper, Port Arthur, Tex., died instantly Tuesday night when his Army truck crashed near Monroe, La. Robert J. Miller, 820 16th St., Logansport, Ind., died early today of injuries suffered in the same accident and Pvt. Swain Higgins, Royston, Ga., was hospitalized at Monroe with a broken jaw received in the truck mishap.

Herbert C. Smith, 32, Rock, Kan., was killed shortly after midnight when an Army truck backed over him, crushing him to death, near Minden, La.

Last week, Specialist 3.C. Joseph P. Polizoto, 23, Avon, Conn., was found fatally wounded in the maneuver area near Ruston, La. Specialist 3.C. John H. Powers, San Francisco, died of a brain hemorrhage while en route to the maneuver area from Ft. Bragg, N. C.

Former Resident Dies at St. Louis

Ruben A. Land, 86, of 9632 Joplin street, St. Louis, Mo., died at his home Tuesday morning. He formerly lived in Saline county. The funeral will be held in the Edward Fendler funeral home in St. Louis at 1:30 p. m. on Thursday with burial in St. Matthews cemetery.

Wing Commander Electrocuted In Flying Kite

CHARLESTON, S. C. (U)—Capt. Arthur W. Elliot, 34, aircraft commander with the 1608th Air Transport Wing, was electrocuted Tuesday while flying an elaborate kite he got in South America for neighborhood children.

Elliot, father of four children, was killed instantly when the kite string of nylon covered wire became entangled in a high tension line.

Dehydrated

West Point Cadet, Trapped in Freight Car Eight Days, Lives on Raw Potatoes

WEST POINT, N. Y. (U)—A physical and mental checkup was planned today for an 18-year-old cadet who subsisted on raw potatoes while trapped in a freight car for eight days.

Army doctors said Jerome Lee Gibbons, a plebe (first year man) from Fulton, N. Y., had been dehydrated by his ordeal and had lost about 15 pounds. Although weakened physically, he was reported in good condition.

Gibbons was found lying atop several potato bags Tuesday by three loaders who were about to unload the freight car in the Jersey City, N. J., yards of the Erie Railroad, about 35 miles from the U. S. Military Academy.

The cadet told railroad police this story:

Fearing that he had failed a semi-annual physical test, he left the academy the afternoon of Sunday, March 17. "Because I just wanted to get away from it all."

He then walked 20 miles to Campbell Hill where he climbed into the freight car, believing it to be headed upstate toward Fulton. The door then locked automatically and Gibbons found himself sealed in.

The next day, the car, loaded with potatoes, was moved to Jersey City where it sat at a siding until Tuesday. For days he banged on the box car door, but to no avail. Without water to drink, Gibbons nibbled on the potatoes for subsistence. To keep warm, he huddled between the potato bags.

Believes Byrd Proposal Would Hurt Security

Congress is Challenged to Decide Major Slashes

WASHINGTON (U)—President Eisenhower today vehemently attacked piecemeal budget cuts by Congress as fatuous and the most foolish kind of economy.

As for a specific recommendation by Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) that the $71.8 billion budget for fiscal 1958 be cut by $5 billion, the President said he did not believe a cut of this size could be accommodated within the security and welfare requirements of the United States.

The President did not discuss the reported Florida trip directly at his news conference. But he did tell reporters he would like to get some more sunshine.

He said he was feeling better than before his trip to Bermuda. But he said he actually only got 2 1/2 days of sunshine and would like to get some more.

The President today showed some tan from the sun he got on the way to Bermuda. He didn't cough during the news conference, but at times his voice seemed a little husky. He appeared to have gained a little weight.

Byrd made that reduction proposal in a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate today.

In his most vigorous discussion of the budget to date, the President challenged Congress to decide for itself whether the American people wanted to cut down on payments to veterans, agricultural benefits and the construction of new schools. He said these are the only expenses that could be chopped down, because to reduce expenditures for defense, mutual aid and the Atomic Energy Commission would be to invite international trouble.

More Economy-Minded

Mr. Eisenhower's news conference ran unusually long—35 minutes—as he went to great length to support his budget against growing demands on Capitol Hill for sharp reductions.

He said savings undoubtedly were possible but he was somewhat amazed to notice recently that a number of persons were becoming more economy-minded than before.

He energetically rejected the idea of any major cuts in the defense or foreign aid programs. So the only places big cuts could be made would be such possibilities as the Post Office Department, now laboring under an undesirable deficit, fixed benefits for veterans, federal aid for school construction, and farm benefits.

He said he also wanted to point out that Congress has authorized many public works without proper preliminary surveys. He said he believed that Congress had done this obviously for political reasons.

Mr. Eisenhower said it was futile to talk about keeping up the United States' position in the world

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Dave Beck Is Big Real-Estate
Operator; His Family Goes
In For Beer—From Brewery
To Bar; It Was Harry Truman
Who First Got Curious About
Beck's Income Taxes.

WASHINGTON. — It has been known for some time that Dave Beck, potent harassed, and harried head of the Teamsters, was under income-tax scrutiny. But it has not been known how the investigation started. It can now be revealed that it was actually ordered by President Harry Truman and has been continued by Internal Revenue since.

Income-tax troubles are considered to be the reason why the big Teamster boss has been so frantically selling off big wads of real estate and why he also went before the union's executive council to sell his home and his furniture to the union, even though the union had already paid for various repairs on the home, and thus paid for part of it twice.

The skein of Beck's far-flung business operations is difficult to unravel. The tax agents have been working on it for some time and find that he has real estate
all the way from the Washington,
D. C. suburbs to the west coast.

However, here is a quick look at
part of his financial empire:
Early in Beck's career his family got into the beer business. Not content with organizing the beer-wagon drivers Beck organized the brewery workers. They had their own union, but he moved in and made them part of the Teamsters.
Then Beck's nephew, Norman
Gessert, became president of Sunset Distributors which handles Rainier beer in North Seattle.

Beck himself, with his wife, has owned about 1,000 shares of Rainier stock.
BUDWEISER AND BECK JR.
Dave Beck Jr. is also president of K and L Beverage Co., which now handles Budweiser. For a long time, no eastern beer was allowed to enter Seattle. The Teamsters wouldn't permit it. It was not distributed. But now
Dave Beck's son has the distribu-torship for Anheuser-Busch of St.
Louis.

Dave Beck's wife, Dorothy, also holds stock in K and L distributors which sells not only beer, but whisky and wine as far north as Alaska. So the Beck family is right in the beer business from bar
back to the brewery.

The Teamsters' constitution, by the way, requires that its international president shall "devote all his time to the service of the brotherhood."

Another part of Beck's financial empire which the tax agents have taken a look at is his real estate and his finance agency. The latter, the Northwest Securities
Corp., is an automobile finance agency which does about $2,000-000 worth of business annually on new and used cars, plus auto insurance.

Beck has borrowed part of the money for his business ventures
from his own union, as he himself said, to the tune of $300,000 to $400,000 without interest. He has also borrowed from the Occidental Life Ins. Co. of California, which handles the health and welfare funds for 300,000 Teamsters in the 12 western states.

With this financial backing, Beck has acquired a large interest in the swankiest apartment house in Seattle, Grosvenor House. It's a 356-unit building located across from Teamster headquarters worth about $3,500,000. A group of local business built it, made Beck chairman of the board.

Beck also organized the D and B Investment Corp. and owns part of the LBG Realty Corp.
Through them he has acquired apartment houses, parking lots,
beer-distributing buildings, etc.,
etc., all around Seattle.

FAMILY SALES
Some of these were sold in a hurry when he was reported to be anxious to raise tax money.

They were sold in many cases to his family or to family corporations at very nice prices. For instance, Beck owned a piece of property on 14th Avenue in Seattle which was being used by Sunset Distributors, which is owned by his nephew, Norman Gessert,
by Mrs. Beck's niece, and by a Teamster official, Albert Irvine.

Beck had purchased the building for $45,000 in 1951 in 1951 and sold it in 1955 to his family beer-distributor company for $100,000. He doubled his money in four years.

Beck also sold two lots on East Marginal Way to another of his family companies. A family firm,
the K and L Distributing Co., had been occupying the lots, and Beck
sold them to the Cosmopolitan Co.,
of which Dave Beck Jr. is president, with his nephew Gessert and a Teamster official, Simon Wampold, officers of the company.

Thus it was hard to say where
Beck's interest began and left off.

At any rate, the Teamsters considered them valuable enough to buy them from Beck in 1956 for $107,000, which made some people wonder why they hadn't bought the lots in the first place. As president of the union, Beck could have let his union buy this valuable property instead of acquiring it himself.

THE UNION BUYS
Another interesting real-estate transaction was Beck's sale of two lots to his own union for $107,000.
The deeds show that Beck paid $1 each for the lots, which are located right across from Teamster Seattle headquarters, therefore obviously property the union
someday would need. However,
Beck bought them in 1951 for the registered price of $1 each, though there may have been some other unrecorded consideration.

Boyetts Having 'Time of Their Life' in Florida

Charles E. Boyett, Harco, who retired as an official of the Peabody Coal Co., when the dust recovery plant was shut down, is having the "time of his life" down
in Florida driving new Cadillacs, Pontiacs and several makes of small foreign made cars.

He and Mrs. Boyett reside at Fort Pierce, and are personally acquainted with Dap Reed and Ralph (Tubby) Horning, partners
in the Reed-Haughton Motor Co.,
dealers in automobiles. Reed and Horning are former Harrisburg men.

Their cars are delivered to Jacksonville and Mr. and Mrs. Boyett have recently been employed to drive the new cars on from Jacksonville to the dealer at Fort Pierce or to whatever customer in Florida they are consigned. They usually travel from Fort Pierce to Jacksonville by train, and then each of them drives back a new car.

Besides getting paid for driving
these lovely new cars, Mr. Boyett, who is an expert mechanic, is employed three days a week building television antennas and putting together ornamental iron work.

Mrs. Boyett, who belongs to the Saline County Garden club, has joined the Fort Pierce Garden club
and has been the winner at several

Mother Enrolls Sons In College Early

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. —
Mrs. William H. Martin is taking no chances that a predicted nationwide classroom shortage will crowd her sons out of an education at the college of their choice.

She has enrolled her two boys at Rutgers University slightly ahead
of time.

Mrs. Martin has registered Robert, 12, for 1962 and Brooks, 10, for 1964.
"My purpose . . . is to get my boys in line," Mrs. Martin said. "I know it may not help, but it certainly will do no harm."

She wrote a similar letter to Dartmouth—just in case.

Mount Goodwin-Austen, in the Himalayan Mountains, ranks next
to Mount Everest in elevation.

Woodpeckers Don't Wreck Houses

CHICAGO — House owners
needn't rush out and get insurance
if a woodpecker starts drilling a hole in a wall, a zoologist says.
The fine feathered friend isn't going to wreck the house. He simply wants a nice, fat worm for dinner—or a cozy place to take a snooze.

Austin L. Rand, chief curator of zoology at the Chicago Natural History Museum, wrote in the museum's bulletin that estimating insurance risks were out of his line
but woodpecker habits were not.
So when an insurance adjuster wanted information recently on the feathered jackhammers, Rand obliged.

Properly speaking, Rand said,
woodpeckers don't eat wood.
They chisel into wood in search of wood-boring insects. And they excavate nest sites and sleeping places in wood—usually in a tree.

The insurance adjuster wanted to know whether the offending woodpecker and all its young would come back and keep drilling holes
until the house collapsed.

That's contrary to woodpecker
custom, Rand told the worried ad-juster. The birds usually scatter out when they become full-grown and independent, and the claim they stake out next spring may be far from the first nest.

The zoologist also assured his caller that it was improbable any house in the Chicago area would be sufficiently infested with insects to attract a woodpecker year after year. Chiseling into houses usually would be for a nest or sleeping place, he said.

NEW SIZE CLASS— SAME PRICE CLASS

This year's Big M is up in size, in power, in luxury, in everything that counts in a car—the biggest size and value increase in the industry.

THE BIG M IS FAMILY-CAR BIG —BIGGER 4 WAYS OUTSIDE, 8 WAYS INSIDE. This year's Mercury is entirely new, far bigger—close to two tons big.
And it is the only car in its field that offers you the distinction of an exclusive body —shared by no other car.

OVER 6 1/2 FEET WIDE, 17 1/2 FEET LONG—the widest car in its field. You'd have to spend over $2000 more to get a car that's wider.

OVERSIZED INTERIORS—bigger in 8 important dimensions.
More headroom, leg room, shoulder room—and with the most hip room in the field.

EXTRA VALUE EVERYWHERE— exclusive Floating Ride with 4 of the greatest bump-smoothing features ever put between you and the road.
Exclusive Thermo-Matic Carburetor for economy and efficiency, summer and winter.
Greatest compression and torque for the money (in the Monterey series). Highest horsepower in field (up to 335 hp in the M-335 engine in Monterey with standard transmission). Biggest choice of power (4 power combinations available). Come see how many ways THE BIG M tops its field. If your budget fits the low-priced three—it can swing a big, big Mercury.

Lenore Circle Meets At Presbyterian Church

Misses Lelle Anderson and Ada Cable were hostesses to the Lenore circle of the First Presbyterian church at a potluck dinner held at the church Monday evening, March 25.

Miss Mabel Mallonee, program chairman, had charge of the meeting. Miss Julia Williamson gave the Bible study topic from Jesus' teachings on citizenship, "The Things that are Caesars." Mrs. Clara Louise Pittman gave the Social Education and Action lesson, "Learning to Live and Work Together." Miss Lucille Thompson gave the Year Book of Prayer.

Seventeen members and one visitor, Mrs. W. H. Stone, were present.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Miller were called to Poplar Bluff, Mo., last week end, where his sister, Mrs. Elmer Linde, Dexter, is hospitalized with heart ailment. Mrs. J. P. Smith Sr., his sister, and a niece, Mrs. Eugene Veatch, Carmi, also made the trip with them.

P.E.O. Subject Is "Our Public Library"

Chapter Z, P.E.O., held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. B. G. Funkhouser Friday at 2 p. m. During the business meeting the chapter voted to donate $10 to the American Red Cross. Mrs. B. E. Montgomery presented the program entitled, "Our Public Library."

Allen Hansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hansen of 19 South Webster, was taken to the Glenwood Memorial hospital in St. Louis, Mo., yesterday at 3 p. m. Allen, who is a 6th grade pupil at Horace Mann school, became seriously ill at his home and was taken to the Lightner hospital at noon yesterday and from there was taken to St. Louis. The report is that he is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Swinney had as guests the first of this week, her sister, Mrs. Henry Borah, Fairfield, and her brother, Harlan Hodges, Moscow, Idaho. The latter, an athletic coach, has been attending the basketball tournaments in this area, and also visited his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Milburn, New Burnside, also friends in West Frankfort.

Birthday Party for Sandra Smith, Age 10

Miss Sandra Smith celebrated her 10th birthday with a party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Smith of 921 South Ledford street, Saturday. There were gifts, games and refreshments. The game prize winners were Carolyn Renshaw, Cindy Lambert, Trena Jo Kerr, and Nancy Butler. Others attending were Sandra Durham, Carolyn Estes, Sharon Gidcomb, Deborah Wiley and Kathy Wiley.

Friendship Club Meets With Virginia Murphy

The United Friendship club met recently at the home of Virginia Murphy of Eldorado RFD 3. The business meeting began at 7 p. m. when old and new business was discussed and dues collected.

Members present were Goldie Grubbs, Helen Rice and children, Belva Morris, Elmer Dean Johnson, Louise Johnson and the hostess and her daughter, Martha, son, Jesse Jr., and a married daughter, Mrs. Bernice Price of Gary, Ind.

A door prize was won by Terry Rice of Eldorado and the banner winner was Virginia Murphy. Games were played and prizes awarded the winners. Refreshments of sandwiches, soft drinks and coffee were served.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Louise Johnson on April 12th and will be a potluck supper. Members are asked to bring covered dishes to the 6:30 p. m. supper. Handicraft of each member will be judged and the winner will be awarded a choice of all entries. Each member is asked to have an entry ready by April 12th and it is expected that each will leave the meeting with a handmade gift made by a friend as a token of friendship.

To Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mathis of Raleigh, announce the coming marriage of their daughter Dianne to Jack D. Butler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Butler of Raleigh. The wedding is scheduled for sometime in June at the Raleigh Methodist church.

Miss Mathis, who was graduated from HTHS in the class of 1956, attended the University of Illinois at Urbana. Mr. Butler, a graduate of Eldorado high school, class of 1949, and graduate from the University of Illinois School of Agriculture in June.

Woman's Club Holds Fashion Show, County Installation of Officers

The Harrisburg Woman's club was hostess to the Saline County Federation meeting on Monday. The new county officers were installed in an impressive ceremony in which Mrs. Jacob W. Myers charged each of the new officers with her duties and responsibilities. These officers are: President, Mrs. Stanley Wilson of Harrisburg; vice-president, Mrs. Madge Roberson of Eldorado; secretary, Mrs. W. H. Upchurch of Harrisburg; and treasurer, Mrs. Ralph Bean of Eldorado.

The meeting, with Miss Edna Burnett, County Federation president, presiding, opened with a song, "America," sung by the group and followed by the pledge of allegiance to the flag, led by Mrs. E. B. Webster. Mrs. E. Bishop Hill, president of the Harrisburg club, welcomed representatives from other county clubs. These included the Eldorado Woman's club, the Eldorado Junior Woman's club and the Carrier Mills Woman's club. The business of the meeting included the minutes and a vote to donate money to the Red Cross and Carville, La., leprosarium. Miss Burnett announced two important dates on the club's calendar, the workshops to be held in Giant City park today and the district convention to meet in the First Presbyterian church on April 23. Visiting officers and members from other clubs were introduced. Mrs. Loren Dallas of Carrier Mills gave the devotion and Mrs. L. N. Daventport offered prayer.

Pupils of Eleanor Etherton of the HTHS comprised the entertainment part of the program in the regular meeting. They were Carolyn Wasson, presenting a reading of Noel Coward's, entitled "Fumed Oak," and Peggy Strader with Edna Mean's "Auntie Takes Junior to the Movies."

The regular meeting of the Woman's club was preceded by a dessert luncheon and style show. The guests and members were served at small tables under the direction of the executive committee. The fashion models paraded around the room and showed real talent in the display of the charming dresses, coats and suits from the Fashion Palace, accompanied by a running comment by Mrs. John Towle emphasizing color and style accents. Music for this part of the program was provided by Mrs. Dale Sullivan at the piano.

Models for the fashion show, club members, are listed in the order of their first appearance: Mrs. Morris Skaggs, Mrs. L. M. Hancock, Mrs. Herman Davis, Mrs. Nora Arensman, Mrs. Wendell Bramlet, Mrs. Nellie Cline, Mrs. O. L. Turner Jr., Mrs. Carl Rude and Mrs. W. H. Upchurch.

Each of the models showed two costumes, one for early spring and the second for mid-summer weather. The taste and poise of both the selectors and wearers of these fashions, were obvious. All were beautiful. Perhaps Mrs. Cline in a repeat style by the popular maker, Nelly Don, best illustrated how the mature woman in a moderately priced costume, carefully chosen and worn with confidence can be outstanding in any company. The grey flannel coat with a puritan type collar worn by Mrs. Turner was possibly the most illustrative of a fresh exciting new silhouette in fashion this spring.

Hostesses at the meeting were Mrs. Nelle Meyers and Mrs. Ray Durham. The meeting was adjourned by the new president, Mrs. Stanley Wilson.

Mrs. Ralph Owens Hostess To Homemakers Class

The Homemakers class of the North America Baptist church held its regular meeting and fellowship hour at the home of Mrs. Ralph Owens Thursday afternoon. The meeting opened with a prayer led by Mrs. Dewey Dallas, class teacher. Mrs. Verna Boatright, vice-president, presided over the business meeting which included the secretary's report and a vote to send a $5 gift to the Carmi orphanage.

Mrs. Clyde Ragsdale gave the devotion from the 27th Psalm and Mrs. Albert Malone followed the devotion with prayer.

The recreation period included Bible quizzes and other games won by Mrs. Robbie Hankins, Mrs. Dewey Dallas and Mrs. Albert Malone. The door prize went to Miss Imogene Futch.

Sandwiches, potato chips, Cokes, ice cream and cookies were served. Present were Mrs. Clyde Ragsdale, Mrs. Albert Malone, Mrs. Dewey Dallas, Mrs. Verna Boatright and grandson, Dale Conrad, Mrs. Arthur Pryor, Mrs. Thomas Orr, Miss Imogene Futch, Mrs. Cecil Boatright, Miss Mary Owen, Miss Virginia Pryor, Mrs. Bernard Healy and daughter, Linda, Mrs. Robbie Hankins and special guests, Mrs. David Henson and Mrs. Bob Jones and daughter.

The April meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. W. C. Dallas.

Delta Theta Tau Meets At Public Library

The Delta Theta Tau met Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the public library with Mrs. Nelson Pankey, president, presiding. During the business meeting the group voted $65 to the American Red Cross and $100 for relief for a local family.

Plans were made for the cancer drive which will begin in April. Co-chairmen Mrs. George Ed Dalton and Mrs. Joseph McGuire announced a kick-off luncheon for all volunteer workers for the cancer drive will be held the first of April and the house to house canvass will take place between the hours of 5 p. m. and 7 p. m. on April 15.

Thompsonville Couple Observes Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Delmon Neighbors, RFD 4, Thompsonville, celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary Sunday, March 17, with dinner for their six children and families and open house for friends during the afternoon.

There are six children, 23 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren. Two of the children, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lovelace and children of Oregon and Mr. and Mrs. Louie Neighbors and children of Michigan were unable to attend, as was a brother of Mrs. Neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Anderson.

Those attending the Golden Wedding anniversary dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Neighbors, South Bend, Ind.; Miss Helen Neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. George Harris and children, Patricia, Janet and Dennis Roy, Mrs. Effie Raley, Miss Irene Raley, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Artie Anderson and grandson, Pink Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Harris and son, Rev. and Mrs. Howard Snyder, all of Thompsonville; Mr. and Mrs. Osie Neighbors and children, Linda, Darrell and Cynthia, Kirkwood, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Neighbors and children, Carla June and Phyllis Jean of Harrisburg; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hallett of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Guy Neighbors, Mrs. Mable Farmer and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Galbreath, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Courtney, Mrs. Norman Adams and Mrs. Geneva Russell, all of Galatia; Mrs. Ora Frederick of Eldorado, Mrs. Richard Shelter of Rosiclar, Mr. and Mrs. Orva Turner of Fairfield and Mrs. Agnes Groves and children of Cisne.

During the afternoon cake and coffee were served to friends attending the open house.

Already Past Peak for 1960

Population Climb in U.S. Surpasses Predictions; See 228 Million by '75

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (U)—The population of the United States is growing much faster than experts expected. It already has passed the "peak" it was supposed to reach in 1960.

The present rate of population increase—1.7 per cent a year—is more than double that of the 1930s. If it keeps up, America will have more than 228 million persons to feed, clothe, house, educate, employ and transport by 1975.

These facts now are receiving earnest attention at the highest levels of government and business. They have, in the words of Dr. Joseph S. Davis of President Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisers, "profound significance" for the future of the nation and for each individual who will be hunting a job going to college, buying a home or building a factory in the next 20 years.

Some results of the baby boom which has been underway since World War II already are obvious—in overcrowded elementary schools and mushrooming suburban housing developments. But other important implications of the rapid population growth "are not yet widely appreciated," Davis said in an interview.

Increased Consumer Demand
Without making any attempt to guess future birth rates, Davis pointed out some of the ways in which U. S. life will be affected simply by the growing up of babies already born.

—There will be a sharp increase in consumer demand starting in a few years, as postwar children reach their teens. Teen-agers eat more, they spend more for clothes and entertainment. They buy used cars, cigarettes, record-players and sports equipment. This increased demand will be a stimulus to economic expansion.

—The number of boys and girls reaching their 18th birthday—the traditional age for going to college or starting to work—will climb rapidly in the 1960s. Competition for jobs, especially the kind of jobs that offer a good beginning for a career, is likely to be intense. Getting into college may be even harder than finding a job. Population projections indicate that U. S. colleges will have to double their capacity in the next 15 years if they are to handle the tidal wave of applicants approaching their doors.

—The median age for marriage now is slightly over 20. As successive waves of postwar children arrive at this threshold age, there will be a big jump in the annual rate of "household formations." This is an economist's term for newly married couples who enter the market for homes, furniture and appliances. More household formations means a rise in demand for housing and durable goods.

Some economists, such as Prof. Joseph J. Spengler of Duke University, believe that rapid population growth poses a series long-range threat to U. S. prosperity. They foresee growing shortage of natural resources, rising costs of production as the pressure of demand forces industry to tap sub-marginal sources of raw materials, and a general downward slide in living standards.

A Stimulus to Business

Davis does not share this pessimistic outlook. He believes that America's long-range increase in productivity, which has been averaging 3 1/2 per cent a year, or about double the rate of population growth, can continue to raise living standards. He is also confident that scientific and technological advances will open up new sources of raw materials, as in the past.

He noted that a growing population acts as a stimulus to business: there is more incentive to invest in plant expansion if you know the future market will be larger. And the fact that the number of consumers is growing tends to bail out, in the long run, those industries which expand too rapidly through miscalculation of current demand. Thus a growing population can serve as insulation against serious depressions.

But Davis said population growth is no automatic guarantee against short-run "adjustments" in the economy, some of which could be painful. No one can say with certainty, for example, that the expansion of consumer demand which lies ahead will create enough new jobs fast enough to avoid the possibility of considerable unemployment at some point in the expansion of the labor force. Feeding the increased population, Davis said, will be "the least of our worries." U. S. agriculture, which keeps piling up surpluses despite stringent government controls on planting, is capable of enormous expansion of output. Some "adjustments in diet"—such as eating more fish and less beef—may be necessary. But there is no real danger of a food shortage in this country in the foreseeable future.

Elsewhere in the world, it's a different story.

Tips on Traffic Safety

By CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

Despite many warnings of the possible serious accidents which could result from not driving properly when turning in and out of traffic, some drivers continue to ignore the basic rules of the road when making these maneuvers.

When making a left turn, a motor vehicle must approach and start such a turn from the center lane or left side of its half of the roadway. A driver making a left turn from the right hand side of traffic is asking for an accident, and what could be a fatal accident.

Any motor vehicle making a left turn must yield the right-of-way to vehicles approaching from the opposite direction which its turn might block or hinder. It is not difficult to imagine the possible disastrous accident which could result should a vehicle approaching from the opposite direction collide with the car making the left turn.

In the case of making a right turn, the driver must approach and start such a turn from the right side of his half of the roadway or the curb lane.

A copy of the completely new "Rules of the Road" booklet will be sent to you free upon request. Write to CHARLES F. CARPENTIER, Secretary of State, Springfield, Illinois.

NORTH SIDE OF THE SQUARE

The soft and dressy look of clothes for Easter Sunday, 1957, is clearly shown in these three designs which include a suit, a dress and dress with jacket. There's a short cutaway jacket (left) for this suit by Ben Zuckerman. The soft look of this beige-and-white checked wool suit is heightened by a white silk blouse with bow. Pale beige silk crepe afternoon dress, ideal for an Easter brunch, has gentle draping. There's a shallow, scooped neckline in this Adele Simpson design. Waist-length jacket lends a suit look to this dress of gold herringbone tweed. Designed by Roxane, slim dress has scooped neckline and short sleeves. Open neckline of the jacket is filled in with scarf of gold chiffon in two shades.

75-Year-Old Woman Is Victim of Old Confidence Game

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—A 75-year-old widow from Centerville Township has been victimized in an ancient confidence game — the so-called "pigeon drop."

Police said Mrs. John W. Kelley lost her life savings—$1,100—to two strange women here Tuesday.

Mrs. Kelley reported the loss to police after she had taken her money out of the Union National Bank and entrusted it to one of the women.

The pattern of the scheme was the usual one: One woman approached Mrs. Kelley to report her friend had found some cash, offered her a share and asked her to put up her money to show "good faith."

Both women disappeared shortly after receiving the money.

Continue Hearing On Order to Sell Hodge's Hotel

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—A hearing on a state motion to cancel an order for sale of the Esquire Hotel at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., for $522,500 to Michigan Typewriting Co., Detroit. But then the state was unable to close the deal because Mrs. Hodge moved into the hotel's $100 a day penthouse suite and refused to vacate or sign a quit-claim deed.

Then the new offer of $575,000 was made by Charles A. Pitts, Miami, a reported friend of Mrs. Hodge.

In addition to being higher than the previous offer, Pitts' offer included a provision that he would be responsible for Mrs. Hodge's continued occupancy of the hotel.

This, attorneys for the state argued, would solve the state's problem of evicting Mrs. Hodge from the hotel.

Biggest of All Giant Teamsters Union Stretches Across Nation With 1,500,000 Members

By MAUREEN GOTHLIN
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Teamsters Union's sprawling domain includes "everything on wheels that runs in the street" and then some.

The biggest union of them all stretches across the country, through the trucking industry into warehouses and businesses of all kinds. Its 1,500,000 members include women on food canneries, assembly lines, brewery workers, dairy processors, construction workers, gasoline station mechanics and even some automobile salesmen.

Core of its power and influence, among other unions as well as industries, are the truck drivers who form the nucleus of its membership. They haul everything from our daily bread to automobiles fresh off the assembly line.

Has Tripled Membership

The trucking industry estimates three of every four tons of freight moved in this country is hauled on trucks at least part of its journey. Nearly 20 per cent of all freight between cities goes by truck, including most of the nation's livestock, poultry and eggs and more than half its fruits and vegetables. The industry estimates there may be around 150,000 trucking firms.

The union still has a long way to go to organize the entire industry but it has almost tripled its membership in the past 15 years. As a union dealing with thousands of firms, it deals from strength.

The Teamsters Union, for instance, is the target of a substantial number of the secondary boycott charges filed with the National Labor Relations Board.

The usual case centers on a non-union trucking company. Virtually all trucking companies operate within a limited area and depend on other trucking companies to carry the goods farther. If Teamster members refuse to handle the goods, the non-union employer is under pressure to deal with the union to keep his business.

Can Make or Break

Where another union is on strike against a company dependent on trucks for supplies and deliveries, the decision by the Teamsters on whether to "honor" the picket lines or drive through them frequently can make or break the strike.

The Teamsters is one of the few AFL-CIO unions that has refused to sign the AFL-CIO "no-raiding" pact prohibiting affiliated unions from taking members away from each other. Union President Dave Beck's argument is that other unions, particularly the Brewery Workers, have truck-driving or warehouse members who "belong" to the Teamsters.

In an effort to profit instead of suffer from the Teamsters' persuasive power, a number of other unions including the machinists, bakery workers, upholsterers and meatpackers, have signed individual agreements with the Teamsters for "joint" organizing drives.

Teamster leaders boast that their members' wage contracts are "the best in the country."

Wage rates for over-the-road truck drivers in the midwestern states are $2.30 an hour plus substantial fringe benefits.

Henry, Morris Tell of School Building Needs

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The University of Illinois is not worried about getting too large, President David D. Henry told the Illinois Senate Tuesday.

Henry testified at a committee of the whole hearing on Gov. William G. Stratton's $238-million bond issue proposal to "catch up" on building needs at state colleges and universities and welfare institutions.

The Senate also heard Southern Illinois University President D. W. Morris concerning "neglected" building needs at SIU.

The committee hearing was set again for next week after Sen. Dennis J. Collins (R-DeKalb) asked for a restudy of the building needs for the four state teachers colleges.

Representatives of the four colleges will be asked to attend next week's hearing.

The U. of I. would get $86 million from the proposed bond issue, and Henry said priority needs on which there could be no delay added up to $27,085,000.

He said $1,536,000 also was urgently needed as matching funds for federal grants and private gifts.

When the bond issue bill was first heard last week, Sen. David Davis (R-Bloomington) commented that some persons believe the U. of I. may be getting too large.

Henry, questioned about the possibility of the university enrollment climbing to 30,000 within the next few years, said such an enrollment would not be too large "if we can give the students the individual and proper attention" needed for a thorough education.

Morris said capital improvements were needed at SIU to offset "the detrimental effect of 24 years of neglect."

Under Stratton's proposal, SIU would get $41 million, the teachers colleges $30 million, and welfare institutions $81 million.

Found Guilty Of Contempt

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal jury has found Seymour Peck, a deskman for the New York Times Sunday department, guilty of five counts of contempt of Congress.

The conviction Tuesday stemmed from Peck's refusal to answer the First Amendment to the Constitution to name other persons as Communists during testimony before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee.

Judge Luther Youngdahl allowed Peck to remain free on bond pending appeal. No date was set for sentencing. Maximum penalty for the charge is one year in jail and $1,000 fine.

President Eisenhower Hits Small Budget Cuts

and still to advocate severe budget cuts.

$5 Billion Cut Dangerous

He added that some people become highly economy conscious without knowing what they are talking about.

When he was asked specifically about Byrd's recommendations for a $5 billion cut, the President said he did not believe a cut of that size could be made without danger to the basic defense and security programs of this country.

The President said the House and Senate must look at basic programs which they themselves had voted.

Frequently raising his voice, the President said let some one older than he say it is not necessary to meet fixed obligations to veterans; let someone else say a healthy agriculture is not necessary; let someone else say that efforts to relieve the school room shortage are not necessary.

He took another example—the Post Office Department—which he said had put into effect about all of the economies possible without further reducing mail service. He said it would be up to Congress to decide whether the people of the United States should have a decreased postal service.

Pvt. William L. Young, whose wife, Betty, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Young, live at 804 Elder street, Eldorado, was graduated March 22 from the lineman's course at the Army's Southeastern Signal school, Fort Gordon, Ga. The eight-week course trained Young to construct and maintain both open and lead covered field communication wires and cables. He entered the Army in October 1956 and completed basic training at Fort Carson, Colo.

No Contempt Action Seen Against Beck

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dave Beck, heavyweight head of the Teamsters' Union, skated on thin legal ice in his testimony before Senate investigators Tuesday. But he apparently did not fall through.

The Senate Rackets Committee counsel said he did not believe the group would try to cite Beck for contempt of Congress.

Though Beck cited a galaxy of reasons for refusing to give up his personal records or answer questions, he always managed to include some reference to the Fifth Amendment. This is a constitutional protection against possible self-incrimination.

The Senate Rackets Committee prodded him sharply several times on whether he really meant it. Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) once sternly warned Beck he would be in contempt unless he swore his answer to a certain question would tend to incriminate him.

Beck promptly abandoned the embroidered language he had been using to balk and said his answer might tend to incriminate him.

"It might, senator, it might," he said. "I stress 'might'."

The same Fifth Amendment—which says no person can be compelled to be a witness against himself in a criminal case—protected Beck when he refused to hand over his personal records, even in the face of a committee subpoena.

Challenge Overruled

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy told newsmen that, as a practical matter, he did not believe the committee will try to cite Beck for contempt even though his dependence on the Fifth Amendment was not distinct.

Congress generally accepts a plea of the Fifth Amendment as a reason for not answering questions.

Before coming down to the naked admission his records and answers might incriminate him, Beck used fancier terms.

He started with a challenge to the committee's authority, claiming it was straying out of the legislative field. He said this violated Articles 1, 2 and 3 of the U. S. Constitution, which set forth the powers of Congress, the President and the courts.

The committee summarily turned down this reasoning by majority vote. Beck kept reciting it. McClellan kept overruling it.

Beck also invoked the Fourth Amendment, which protects citizens against unreasonable search and seizure of their papers without a proper warrant. This also was rejected by the committee.

Twining Named Chairman Joint Chiefs of Staff

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower in a major shakeup of the nation's military command has nominated the Air Force chief of staff, Gen. Nathan F. Twining, to be chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Twining will assume his new post this summer to succeed Adm. Arthur W. Radford. It will be the first time an airman has held the top military post.

The President also nominated Air Secretary Donald A. Quarles to be deputy secretary of defense.

Many persons here believe Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson will resign later this year and that Quarles then will succeed him.

The President also nominated: —Undersecretary of Air James H. Douglas to be secretary, succeeding Quarles.

—Gen. Thomas D. White to be Air Force chief of staff, succeeding Twining.

—Adm. Arleigh A. Burke for reappointment to a second two-year term as chief of naval operations.

The only top service chief not touched in the shuffle was Gen. Maxwell Taylor, Army chief of staff. His term does not expire until June 29, 1959.

Marketing workers in the United States have increased from 3,500,000 to more than 5,000,000 since 1929.

New Senate Building Gives VP Room to Work

NEW SENATE OFFICE BUILDING: No stenos in the closets.

By KENNETH GILMORE

NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Vice-President Richard Nixon may have solved his over-crowded domestic condition with a 21-room house, but he's still cramped for office space.

And there's not a thing he can do about it until some time in the fall of 1958. If all goes well, that's when Nixon and 40 lucky Senators will move into the 18 million dollar Senate Office Building now under construction.

One feature of the seven-story structure is a choice, first floor corner location for the V. P. It has a large inner office, three adjoining rooms for the staff and a reception room.

"It will be the largest suite in the building," says Harvey Middleton who's directing the project for the Capitol architect.

Nixon's present quarters in the old Senate Office Building consist of four rooms which are "terribly cramped," according to one of his 13 staffers. He would actually hire more help if he had the space.

Covering half a city block, the marble-faced structure will give many solons a chance to let their secretaries out of closets, thanks to well-proportioned five - room suites.

Nearly 200 cars will be able to park in the two stories below street level. A basement in the gymnasium will also allow legislators to flex their muscles, play handball or receive rubdowns. During the summer they can bask on a special senatorial sun-deck.

Original plans calling for a swimming pool were thrown out for economy reasons.

In addition to a large dining room for Senators, a cafeteria will seat 700 people at a time and take care of more than 2,000 people during a heavy lunch hour. A 500-seat auditorium specially designed for national television with a walled-off studio will meet the demands of spectacular committee hearings.

Eight rooms in the new building will be set aside for a school for Senate pages. There will also be 12 spacious committee rooms.

Two pedestrian tunnels will connect the new building to the old and eventually a modern subway will run directly to the Senate.

Americans consume about 8,500,000 hot dogs annually.

Controls Have Been Under Study by Two Gov't Agencies

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)— Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks' press conference statement that the Eisenhower administration had no plans, no studies and no disposition to take the road back to government controls of prices and wages isn't the whole story.

His statement may have applied accurately to his own Department of Commerce. But it overlooks two important studies of inflationary controls. These have been going on in Washington for a long time in the Office of Defense Mobilization and the Federal Reserve Board.

Weeks amended his repudiation of direct inflationary control studies by saying that the Federal Reserve Board was an independent agency, not a part of Ike's administration.

But for over a year, the board has been studying consumer credit controls at President Eisenhower's own request, relayed through his Council of Economic Advisers.

Summary of the study will be released by mid-March, if they get it printed by then. It will be in five big volumes.

Nobody, but nobody, will read all five volumes. But they will contain a review of arguments for and against consumer credit control.

The staff study is being prepared under Ralph Young, head of FRB's economic research. He has worked in consultation with the congressional economic and banking committees.

There will be no recommendation from the FRB's board of governors, however, on whether controls should be applied now. In an impartial, detached manner they're leaving the answer to that 40-billion-dollar annual question to the President and Congress.

The studies of price and wage controls which the Office of Defense Mobilization (ODM) has been making are much more specific. But these planned controls are intended for use only in time of war.

Under Edward F. Phelps, assistant director for stabilization, ODM has now developed full plans for complete controls.

Two years ago, when Arthur S. Flemming, ODM director, was preparing to ask for renewal of the Defense Mobilization Act, there was a plan to have Congress give the President stand-by authority to impose these controls in time of emergency.

Before this could be done, however, President Eisenhower backed away from it. He decided that if controls ever became necessary Congress would grant him the authority without question.

It can be stated authoritatively that there is no change in this policy today. The Defense Mobilization Act expires again next June 30. Congress will be asked for another renewal by new ODM Director Gordon Gray. But there is no intention of asking Congress for stand-by price and wage control authority.

Most of the ODM plans are classified as secret. But there is a feeling among ODM planners that some day their proposed economic control system should be made public as a matter of national preparedness.

It isn't considered wise to scare people with this kind of information now. But gradually, over the next generation, economists figure it will become fashionable to be prepared.

The important point is that economic control planning is actually going on in Washington, in spite of denials. There is simply no intention to use these controls now to combat inflation under existing

Questioned at Du Quoin in Fatal Shooting

DU QUOIN, Ill. (UP)— Billy Carson Bunton, 23, a Navy veteran and part-time lumber yard worker, is being questioned by authorities here in connection with the fatal shooting of another man after a drinking party Monday night.

State's Atty. Lloyd Middleton said charges are pending against Bunton. Dead is John Hunter, 32, an unemployed Army veteran who was shot through the neck.

Authorities said the same bullet which killed Hunter wounded William J. Wendling, 26, an Army veteran and part-time farm laborer in the right hand.

Middleton said Bunton claimed the shooting was an accident. The state's attorney quoted Bunton as saying he put a 22-caliber target pistol in the ice box at the Elmer Royster home when he came there. Bunton said the gun accidentally discharged as he was getting it out of the ice box when leaving, according to Middleton.

Du Quoin Police Chief Vallie West said Bunton voluntarily surrendered at a hospital where Hunter was pronounced dead upon arrival.

Middleton said that eight persons had apparently drunk 17 bottles of beer at the Royster home during the evening.

Television Film to Stress Continuing Fight To Finish Job on Polio

A dramatic television program of special interest in the continuing fight to "finish the job" against polio will be seen here soon. To be telecast as a public service on station WSIL-TV at 8:30 p. m. on April 7, the special half-hour program is an episode in the inspirational TV series "This Is The Answer."

Titled "Shadow of Tomorrow" the episode depicts two of the services made possible by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and the March of Dimes. Showing emergency use of the "iron lung" and rehabilitation work to help restore a polio

Kuenn Leads Tigers to 8-4 Win Over Reds; Pirates Wallop Cardinals, 4 to 0

By United Press
Harvey Kuenn is serving sharp notice this spring that he may be the "man to beat" for the American League batting title. The experts have been forecasting a battle among Ted Williams, Mickey Mantle and Al Kaline, but the 26-year old Kuenn looks like he's geared for a fast start that could leave 'em all far behind. He's belting the ball at a .404 clip, has hit in 10 straight games and connected safely in all but one of the 15 games he's played.

Kuenn enjoyed his best day of the spring Tuesday when he drove in five runs with a homer, two doubles and a single to lead the Detroit Tigers to an 8-4 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs. The victory was the Tigers' fourth in six games after they started their Grapefruit League campaign with eight defeats in 10 contests.

Mueller Grand-Slams

The Pittsburgh Pirates scored their 10th win in 16 exhibition games when they got two-hit pitching from Dick Hall, Nelson King and Elroy Face to beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-0. The Pirates walloped Murry Dickson and Jim Davis for 11 hits, including a homer by Bill Mazeroski.

The New York Giants, who are developing into a real spring surprise, downed the Baltimore Orioles, 7-6, and now have won 11 of 16 Grapefruit League games. Don Mueller pulled this one out of the fire with a grand-slam homer with two out in the ninth after Bob Speake's four runs batted in provided the Cubs with a 6-3 lead.

The Baltimore Orioles handed the puzzling Cleveland Indians their seventh setback in eight games when they rallied for three runs in the ninth and a 7-6 decision. Wayne Causey tied the score with a two-run single and then 19-year old sensation Brooks Robinson, who knocked in three earlier runs, delivered him with the game-winning tally.

Dodgers in Rout
The Brooklyn Dodgers poured over seven runs in the third inning and went on to rout the Philadelphia Phillies, 8-3. Doubles by Don Newcombe, Gino Cimoli, Carl Furillo and Charley Neal featured the big uprising against southpaw Harvey Haddix.

Roy Sievers' ninth-inning single was the big blow of a battle of homers as the Washington Senators tripped the Kansas City Athletics, 8-7. Bob Cerv hit two homers and Gus Zernial and Hal Smith one each for Kansas City while Harmon Killebrew delivered a grand-slam round-tripper for the Senators.

Jimmy Piersall homered in the 10th inning to enable the Boston Red Sox to shade the Los Angeles Angels of the Pacific Coast League, 6-5. Red Sox rookie outfielder Marty Keough hit two homers while Jim Baxes homered twice and Steve Bilko blasted a round-tripper for Los Angeles.

Despite the fact that he hit only six home runs at Denver—where, according to Casey, "homers are kinda cheap because of the wind and dry air"—the Yankee pilot believes Kubek has enough power.

"But he ain't got the job cinched," Stengel went on to explain. "There's fellows like Enos Slaughter, Elston Howard, Norm Siebern and Bob Martyn who might have something to say about that. But this much I know, with those five fellows I ain't worried about a left fielder."

Boys Interested In Junior Legion Baseball To Meet at Eldorado

All boys interested in playing Junior Legion baseball this summer are invited and urged to attend a meeting at the Eldorado high school gymnasium Monday, April 1, at 7:30 p. m. Parents are also invited to the meeting.

Boys born Sept. 1, 1939, or thereafter, with a minimum age of 15 years, are eligible to compete in Junior Legion baseball this season and boys in the Raleigh, Galatia and Harrisburg communities, providing their American Legion posts are not sponsoring a local Legion baseball program, are eligible to play on the Eldorado team.

The season will not start until after the close of the current school term and playing on the team will not interfere in any way with school activities.

Two Olympic Champs Wed in 3 Ceremonies

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia — Olympic champions Harold Connolly of Boston and Olga Fikotova of Czechoslovakia were pronounced man and wife three times today in wedding ceremonies that ended their long fight to wed across the Iron Curtain.

Three thousand enthusiastic Czechs overflowed the huge old town square outside City Hall and cheered on the couple as they moved from one ceremony to another — Roman Catholic, Protestant and Civil in accordance with their religions and Czech law.

Met At Melbourne

Wedding bells pealed throughout the Czech capital for the American Olympic hammer champion and his pretty brown-eyed Czech bride, who won a gold medal at the Melbourne Olympics for discus throwing. It was there their romance started.

They were married first in a Civil ceremony at City Hall as prescribed by Czech law. Then they were re-married at the Roman Catholic Church of Our Lady. Finally, another ceremony was conducted across the square in Olga's own church, the Evangelical Church of St. Salvatore.

Connolly, 26, and his 26-year-old bride had hoped to be the first couple in line when City Hall opened, but a huge crowd barred the way. Finally they got in an hour and 15 minutes later and a city official married them.

Congratulations poured in from all over the world, including one from Secretary of State John Foster Dulles stating "Mrs. Dulles and I extend best personal wishes on your wedding day. John Foster Dulles."

President Antonin Zapotocky of Czechoslovakia was invited to be guest of honor at the wedding—it was generally agreed that his personal intervention had cut some of the red tape that threatened to block the romance.

High School Sports Help Form Character, HTHS Speaker Says

High school students present last night at the annual HTHS basketball banquet in Bonnell gymnasium were told to respect their high school years, as that is the most important time in their lives from a formative standpoint.

The speaker was Ray Hanson, athletic director of Western State College, Macomb, Ill., who also stated:

"The raw character of the high school boy is being formed between 4 and 9 p. m. and I believe the best place he could be after school is on the athletic field or floor."

Declaring that athletics teach a boy to control hatred and jealousies, he stated:

"I'm sure we're not overdoing our high school sports. I predict that one of these days grade schools will have just as big athletic programs as our high schools do now."

16 Varsity Letters

Mr. Hanson, the originator of the 10-second rule in basketball and a member of the Basketball Hall of Fame, said:

"In Illinois we have the finest basketball in the United States and the best basketball in Illinois is played in southern Illinois."

"The best high school team in the United States this year has to be Herrin," he declared.

He urged all the seniors present to make up their mind to go to college somewhere as "it will provide interference for you in life and probably will give you the opportunity to live a fuller life."

Coaches John Dotson and Hal Killebrew gave 16 letters to varsity players as follows: Gary Aldridge, Donald Biggs, Charles Cummins, Jim Cummins, Richard Drue, Ben Fulkerson, Ray Hassett, Bill Henshaw, Melvin Hicks, Kinch Jones, Eddie Price, J. L. Robinson, Mickey Stone, Wayne Stone, Bill Yates and John Zeigler and Managers Ronnie Vick and David Moore.

CAMEL ROCK FORMATION in The Garden of the Gods in Saline county. A gigantic array of rocks makes this a scenic wonder of southern Illinois.

Scenic Wonder of Southern Illinois

By L. A. Dearinger

One of the Seven Scenic Wonders of Egypt, according to the Ozarkers, is the Garden of the Gods, down in Saline county, east of Herod. This garden has no water display. But here is a gigantic array of rocks in all manner of shapes, colors, and structures, with anvil gorges, balanced rocks, caves, perilous heights, and deep-cut chasms—the Gods must have had a heigh-ho time when they built this garden.

The Garden is spread along the old Salt Road, which connected E-town with the salt works at Equality, and which once was a main highway, well-travelled, back in 1878, when the old Colbert house was built. Beyond the Colbert house that part of the old Salt Road which is not abandoned is impassable in wet weather, even after a heavy dew. In some histories this road is called "The Road of Anvils"—nearly a mile beyond the Colbert house is Anvil Rock, gateway to the Garden of Anvils, and to the Garden of the Gods.

South and in sight from Anvil Rock are Sentinel Rocks, the first of the formations in the central section of the Garden. Beyond these are the Castle Rocks, and then Camel Rock, the most important formation in the area. Here, also, is Pulpit Rock, where worship services are held when the color tours visit the area. Nearby are the Camel Driver, and many other formations which as yet seem to be unnamed.

Beyond Pulpit Rock is the south-east section of the Garden. Capping a high cliff is a balanced rock. Box canyons are cut into the mountain, and in some of these are small, shelter caves. One formation resembles a ship's prow. Just beyond this ship's pro is what appears to be a large crevasse, but actually is the opening of a cave. Mr. Art LaSalle of Mt. Vernon, who has been doing considerable exploring in this area, is, perhaps, the first man in recent years, and outside the area, to examine this crevasse and establish the presence of a cave.

West from the Anvil, up Moccasin Hollow, is a third section—the Garden of Anvils. A high, steeply sloping cliff rises above a narrow gorge. Atop these cliffs are free-standing formations, many of which resemble anvils sufficiently to give the area its name. One of these formations is called "Dinosaur Rock", and "Balanced Rock"; between the strata in this rock daylight can be seen, and on the pointed end, when viewed from the west, is a natural design which resembles, without much imagination, an Indian pictograph of a bear. The very name, "Crying Crocodile", suggests another formation, this one near the head of the gorge. Along the line of cliffs from Anvil Rock, is, according to LaSalle, a sizeable shelter cave, and other curious formations. Across Moccasin Hollow, south, is "H" Rock, a very realistic formation which is to be found some sixty feet up on the sheer face of a cliff.

One distinguishing feature of all these formations is the effect of weather-wearing. A lower, and softer layer of stone has weathered away into grotesque shapes. A harder overlay has weathered more slowly, leaving a pillar-with-cap effect. The term "Anvil Rock" suggests the appearance of many of these formations.

A second feature has been

House Defeats Bill to Repeal Controversial Splash Guard Law

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—The Illinois House Tuesday defeated a bill to repeal the controversial 1955 law requiring contour splash guards on trucks, after a debate that included references to "padding the pockets" of former Democratic Gov. John Stelle.

The bill got only 74 votes, of 89 required for passage. There were 67 votes against, with 36 members not recorded or voting present.

The House then passed, 131-20, a bill to amend the 1955 law to exclude farm trucks, dump trucks, cement mixers and trucks which operate primarily within a city from the act.

Rep. Paul Simon (D-Troy) said he had investigated the ownership of a number of firms which manufacture the contour truck guards.

He said he found that one of the companies, Contour Truck Guards Inc., Chicago, has as its officers friends and business associates of Stelle.

He said that last session the Legislature, on the same day it passed a sales tax increase, passed a bill to reduce the taxes paid by the Cahokia Downs and Fairmount race tracks. He said Stelle was a major stockholder in Cahokia Downs.

Simon questioned whether the contour truck guard law was designed to "pad the pocketbooks of the same race track crowd that got the tax bonanza" in 1955.

Simon also charged that Democratic members of the Legislature had been pressured by the party leadership and Republican members had been pressured by Gov.

William G. Stratton to oppose the repeal of the bill.

This brought cries of denial from several legislators, including Rep. Paul Powell (D-Vienna), who is a friend of Stelle and who supported the original 1955 law. Powell denied that any pressure had been exerted on him, but conceded that he had directed a man interested in manufacturing contour guards to Stelle as a possible investor.

He said Stelle had a $750 investment in the Chicago truck guard firm. Powell defended the 1955 law and opposed the repealer, which he said was being pushed by "the big truck lobby."

Powell said the argument on the bill was a matter of deciding between 3½ million automobile drivers who have no big lobbyists, versus 125,000 big truckers.

He charged the big truckers were "hiding behind the farmers" in seeking to get the 1955 law repealed.

Powell also denied claims that the contour type guards required by the law cannot easily be purchased. He said such guards are advertised in the Sears-Roebuck catalogue.

Democrats and Republicans alike arose to deny Simon's charges that pressure had been brought to bear on them to oppose the repeal bill.

2nd Circuit Endorse GOP Judge Crebs

CARM, Ill. (UP)—A Republican incumbent 2nd Circuit judge from Robinson won the endorsements of his own party and the Democrats in conventions Monday at Mount Vernon and Carmi.

Judge Caswell Crebs was nominated by the GOP at Mount Vernon Monday morning, then was endorsed by the Democrats who met at Carmi.

Crebs, who is finishing his 12th year on the bench, has strong Republican support in his home county of Crawford plus Lawrence and Wabash counties.

The Republicans also nominated attorneys Roy Guiley of Benton and Randall Quindry of Fairfield. The other two Republican incumbents—Ben Eovaldi of Benton and Charles Randolph of Carmi—are not seeking re-election.

The Democrats nominated Crebs and two members of their own party—attorney Robert Hill of Benton and James Karber of Ridgway. Hill is the son of former Circuit Judge Joe Hill. Karber is a former state representative and Gallatin county state's attorney.

The 2nd Circuit includes Crawford, Edwards, Franklin, Gallatin, Hamilton, Hardin, Jefferson, Lawrence, Richland, Wabash, Wayne and White counties.

The Little Boy Who Never Stops Laughing

RICHARD LAUGHS IT UP with his dad and sister, Valentina.

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — This is about a little boy in Hollywood who never stops laughing.

His name is Richard, and he's a recently discovered victim of dreaded leukemia.

He's nine years old, with red hair and a face full of freckles.

He's always laughed a great deal because his father is Red Skelton.

Richard's very first laugh, when he was only 18 months old, meant more to his dad than the acclaim of millions. Even if Red did have to squirt ink all over his famous face and expensive clothes, and was late to the studio that morning.

At nine, Richard's still laughing. More than ever.

His daddy wants it that way. "What are you giving up for Lent?" he'll ask Richard.

Richard replies:

"My school homework."

Then both fall on the floor and roll around, laughing hysterically.

There's an expensive model train set covering two ping pong tables in the sitting room outside Red's bedroom. Richard, an engineer's cap atop his red hair, sits on a stool. Red wears an engineer's cap, too, and with the comedian at the controls the wreckage is something fearful.

Richard never stops laughing about it all.

There's a makeup table in the Skelton home. Richard sits there while Red plays "movie makeup man." Finally Richard gets to look at himself in the mirror. He sees Freddie the Freeloader, junior editor.

Richard never stops laughing.

Richard is old enough now to stay up past his bedtime and watch his daddy's TV show which doesn't come on the air until 9:30 in Hollywood. Red talks back to himself on the screen as they watch the delayed kinescope, and Richard never stops laughing.

Richard has become one of his dad's radio characters, "the mean widdle kid," in some home movies Red is making. Almost anything goes. There is no script. The film supply is endless.

"Now in this scene," Red announces to Richard, "you pick up the book, throw it at the wall and then you sneak outdoors and push a chair into the swimming pool."

Richard never stops laughing.

"Why does a chicken cross the street?" Red suddenly will ask Richard at the dinner table. "To get on the other side," replies Richard. Then both fall on the floor and roll around—and Richard never stops laughing.

The Air Force sent Richard one of those test pilot helmets—the Man From Mars type. Red puts it on, struts around and then tries to take it off. It won't budge.

"Daddy's caught again!" Richard alerts everyone in the house. Everyone rushes in and for half an hour Red struggles to free himself, making it look so difficult it's fabulous.

Richard never stops laughing.

Red Skelton frequently wanders through the novelty and toy stores in Westwood Village near their Bel-Air Home. His arms are full of packages when he returns home to hide them in a closet. Now and then Red announces to Richard:

"Here's a little present I bought for you."

It's always some amusing gift, or the remarks with which Red wraps the packages, to make Richard laugh.

Red likes to hear his only son laugh.

Making people laugh, after all, is Red Skelton's business.

It's easy when you are trained for it.

But not so easy sometimes, as any comedian will tell you.

British losses in the Battle of New Orleans were 2,000, compared to 71 Americans, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Most bank run gravel in North Dakota is too dirty and too fine to make strong concrete.

U. S. Posts 24-Hour Watch on North Atlantic

ARGENTIA, Newfoundland (UP)—The United States has posted a 24-hour-a-day "watch on the Atlantic" to trip up any Russian attack over the northerly ocean approaches.

Two major factors in the cold war dictated newly revealed U. S. Navy operations from this Newfoundland base, which dominates the North Atlantic and was the birthplace of the Atlantic Charter in 1941. They are:

—Development of long-range bombers like the Russian Bear which raised the possibility that attacks originating at Soviet Arctic bases might follow ocean courses southward, darting in on U. S. targets and outflanking continental radar warning lines in the north.

—A "definite increase" in deep water movements of Russian submarines which has accompanied vast expansion of the Red under-sea fleet in recent years.

At the direction of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the Navy has been quietly operating a new "Atlantic Barrier Force" of picket ships and flying radar stations athwart the seaward approaches for the past nine months.

A similar force is being organized to patrol the Hawaii-Alaska

Farewell to 'Arms'

DETROIT (UP)—Mrs. Ora Jones put a revolver under her pillow when her husband, James, 42, began taking a shotgun to bed with him. But when he brought a rifle home she called police. Mrs. Jones was arrested for having an un-registered gun; Jones for threatening his wife. Police said that Jones also had filed the firing pin from his wife's pistol.

area in an effort to seal off that possible approach to U. S. targets.

Reporters witnessing the Atlantic Barrier operation from this base gained an impression that enemy planes trying to outflank the continental warning lines might be detected more than 1,500 miles distant from New York.

If so, that could mean three or more hours warning of a seaward approach—or as much alert as is expected from the Distant Early Warning line at the top of the continent in event of transpolar attack.

Adm. Jerauld Wright, Atlantic Fleet commander who is here for a mission aboard one of the Constellation-type radar planes, said the Navy was "here to stop" any sneak attack crossing the Atlantic Barrier Force area.

Line Up Dealers For Edsel, Ford's Newest Auto

WASHINGTON (UP)—Richard E. Krafve is a man beating the drums for a product so secret only 500 people know what it will look like.

The product is the new Edsel automobile, Ford's forthcoming challenge in the medium-priced automotive field. Krafve, general manager and vice president of the Edsel Division, is busy lining up the 1,200 dealers who will originally distribute the new car.

"We've received more than 2,800 applications for dealerships," Krafve told the United Press in an interview. "But we're not waiting for people to come to us—we're asking banks and business leaders to recommend prospective dealers, too."

Debut in Fall

The Edsel, named for the son of the company's founder, will be introduced sometime next fall.

"We have a target date but we can't reveal it yet," Krafve added. "There are too many things we might trip over before we arrive at a definite date."

The slim, baldish executive did reveal these few things about the new car whose styling has been revealed only to top Ford officials. —It will sell in four price brackets—the Ranger, Pacer, Corsair and Citation, the latter being the most expensive. Wheelbase will vary among these models.

—It will be "distinctively but not radically styled." You'll be able to tell it's an Edsel from any angle you look at it," Krafve added.

Parts Interchangeable

—Mechanically, some of its parts will be interchangeable with the Lincoln, Ford and Mercury. The Edsel generally will rank between the Lincoln and Mercury in price.

—Edsel prototypes have been undergoing tests for at least 14 months; the car itself was first conceived in 1954, when preliminary styling sketches were made.

Present plans call for at least 200,000 Edsel units a year, produced in five plants located in Mahwah, N. J.; Somerville, Mass.; Wayne, Mich.; Louisville, Ky., and Milpitas, Calif. A second West Coast plant, in the Los Angeles area, will be picked in the near future.

The Somerville plant will turn out the Citation and Corsair models exclusively. The other assembly facilities will continue to build Ford or Mercuries along with the Edsel.

Morgan closed the door. Helen sat behind the rough desk. Jagger on a chair beside her. Jagger's face was as bruised as Morgan's own, possibly a little more.

"My brother," Helen went on, "does not care to discuss any other topic than the one for which we summoned you here. Namely, the dissolving of the firm of Jagger & Morgan."

"Ask your brother," Morgan said, feeling ridiculous even as he spoke. "Does he expect me to buy him out, or does he intend to buy my share?"

"My brother is not in a position to buy your half interest in the firm," Helen Jagger said stiffly, "and since I am the keeper of the records, I know that you are not in a position to buy him out."

"Just what is my position?" "I will read you the figures," she dropped her eyes to the books.

"The townsite of Pawnee City, or as much of it as still remains unsold, consisting of business and residential lots. Value $200,000."

"Bought," said Morgan, "for $20 and two bottles of whiskey."

"Approximately 1,000 acres of prairie land adjacent to Pawnee City. $10,000."

"Five thousand acres of prairie land, recently purchased, $50,000."

"When did we acquire that?"

"The Drovers Hotel, $25,000." "The Longhorn Saloon, $25,000."

"The Pawnee City Bank, $50,000." "Stockyards and loading pens, $50,000."

"Six business buildings, vacant or leased, $50,000."

Helen paused to take a deep breath. "Total assets, $460,000."

She picked up another sheet of paper: "Liabilities, $31,650 owed various firms in Kansas City, from building of property in Pawnee City. Various and sundry miscellaneous bills, $12,550.62."

Morgan said, "Well, I put up $12,500 in cash. I'll sell out my interest for 50 thousand—"

"I have already told you," Helen said patiently, "that Mr. Jagger is not in a position to buy you out. He prefers to divide the assets—"

"And the debts?" "Since he took the responsibility of incurring them, he will assume them."

"All right," Morgan said, "how do we divide? Straight down the line? He takes the hotel, I take the bank—"

"The hotel," Helen said, "the saloon, the bank, the stockyards and loading pens AND the six business buildings have a total value of $200,000. Mr. Jagger says he will accept these assets and assume the bills and debts. He believes he is being more than fair in permitting you to have the unimproved property in Pawnee City, the 6,000 acres of farmland, with a total valuation of $260,000."

"Tell Mr. Jagger I accept his generous offer," Morgan said tautly. "He can have the papers drawn up."

Joe Jagger and the slate of unopposed candidates were elected on Aug. 1.

The day following, a cowboy galloped his horse up and down the street. Of course he also discharged his revolver a number of times. He aimed mainly at the blue sky but one of his shots went wild and struck a horse tied to the hitchrail in front of The Longhorn Saloon.

The horse happened to be a newly purchased mount, belonging to Wild Jack Mason, who spent about four hours every afternoon and about the same time every evening, playing faro in The Longhorn. He also spent a few hours at The Texas Saloon.

Someone told Wild Jack that his horse had been wounded by a stray bullet. Wild Jack waited until the faro dealer had gone through the deck, from soda to hock, then went out and examined his injured horse. He found that the bullet had gone through a leg of the animal, crippling it.

Wild Jack, being a man of mercy, sent a bullet crashing through the head of his horse. Then he went up the street and found the cowboy who had shot his horse, reeling into The Texas Saloon.

Wild Jack called him some names. The cowboy went for his gun and Wild Jack placed a bullet neatly between his eyes.

Wild Jack reappeared later that evening, and won $200 playing faro.

Two days later, a crew of workmen began constructing a building of heavy planking, the Pawnee City Jail. It was to be of two rooms; the one in the rear was to have a small, barred window and would serve as the jail for the prisoners. A small room in front would be the marshal's office, for it developed that the new construction of Pawnee City provided for a paid marshal. The jail building, it also developed, was to be of two stories, the upper one to be the chambers and courtroom of the justice of the peace, Judson Drake.

The next issue of The Pawnee City Lance carried an article, announcing the appointment of the new city marshal, Jack Mason, known as Wild Jack Mason.

"One must use fire to fight fire," the story said. "The rowdy element has gotten completely out of hand and a man of strength is needed for the post of city marshal."

New Ring Says

'He's Mine, Girls'

NEW YORK—(UP)—One jewelry manufacturer has decided that men, too, should wear engagement rings. The firm is manufacturing an

ing—a diamond engagement ring coordinated with the style of the one a man gives his girl.

Henry Peterson, president of the firm, said the acceptance ring was altogether fitting—that, after all, "many men currently wear and are proud of diamond rings;

now they can wear a diamond ring which helps them declare their love." Who pays for the acceptance ring? She does.

Heavy-Footed Gas Hog?

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
DETROIT—(NEA)—If you're a heavy-foot-Harry on the accelerator you're paving the road with gasoline greenbacks.

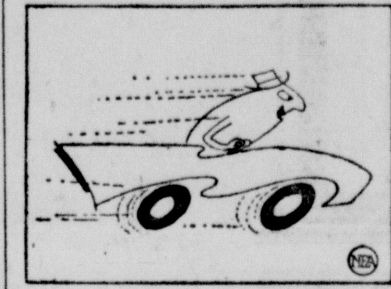

In other words, if you want to improve your car's mileage get the lead out of your right foot when you drive.

This is the conclusion of studies of gas economy by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. and General Motors.

PT & T's motor vehicle supervisor A. A. Keefer set out to save $40,000 per year by getting an extra mile out of every gallon of gas used in his fleet of 1,000 passenger cars. He started out system of injecting additional fuel into the intake manifold to increase the air-fuel mixture briefly to provide the added surge.

Maintaining a steady speed and making minimum use of brakes are two more gas saving discoveries. In gas economy competition drivers remove their right shoe so their foot will be sensitive to maintaining even pressure on the gas pedal.

On the use of brakes the PT & T report explains:

"When you have to use brakes you waste the energy it took to get you moving and that means wasted gasoline."

Both GM and PT & T studies came up with a condemnation of "jack rabbit" driving. "Every time you speed up to get to the other lane you over-use the accelerator pump and it pumps gas right out the exhaust, using as high as 30 per cent needless fuel," the PT&T study reports.

Just plain speed is a hogish gas eater. For example, a car capable of 20 miles per gallon at 20 miles per hour gets 15.9 miles per gallon at 50 mph and only eight miles per gallon at 70 mph.

A GM expert explains:

"The engine doesn't lose efficiency at higher speeds as many people think and thus eat more gas. The real consumer is wind resistance. The horsepower necessary to overcome wind resistance goes up as the cube of the speed. For example, if you double your speed the horsepower requirement goes up eight times. This is basic aerodynamics."

Proper shifting and use of the clutch can be another big gas saver. Shifting in to high too soon puts a strain on the engine, causing gas to be wasted. Delayed shifting is also bad. At 20 mph, for example, second gear used 20 per cent more gasoline than high. Automatic shifts are designed to make most efficient use of this factor.

A big gas eating habit is slipping the clutch to hold the car on hill stops. Using the brake instead of the clutch in one controlled test a PT&T driver added 3.4 miles per gallon.

Needless idling is another gas gobbler.

GM's study revealed that low tire pressure, incorrect wheel alignment and engine in improper tune were among the most important mechanical causes of poor gas mileage.

The experts estimate that if a driver observes these gas-saving rules he can improve his mileage more than 30 per cent in some cases.

Coating Medicinal Tablet Is an Art

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(UP)—Skill in the coat business is not confined to tailors, according to Albert Manton and Edward W. Hepp, who have been outfitting medicinal tablets for a pharmaceutical manufacturer (Arner).

They pointed out that the tablet tailor's job is a tough one, for too much or too little color can ruin a batch containing 25,000 to 1,000,000 units, worth more than $50,000.

Too much color is about the same as no color at all as it will wash off previous applications. And too little will result in color variations that neither distributors nor consumers would accept.

Color is applied by pouring or spraying to rolling tablets to insure even color distribution.

Run Out of Play Ideas, Mom?

Uncle Sam Can Keep Junior Occupied

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Mothers, we might have something here. Uncle Sam may be the best baby-sitter and occupational outlet yet.

From tots to teen-agers, the U. S. government offers more free activity than a third-grade rhythm band. And it costs next to nothing — that is, for the kids.

As taxpayers, we help underwrite some of the programs. So let's take advantage of them.

For example, is your six-year-old on the verge of a tantrum? Relax. Tell him he can become a bona fide Junior Forest Ranger with an honest-to-gosh membership card from Washington.

It takes more than a simple letter for your child to join the happy throng of fire preventers and soil conservators which is already 850,000 strong.

IN FACT, harassed officials at the Agriculture Department are receiving membership requests at the rate of 1,000 a day.

Maybe the terror of your household doesn't aspire to this sort of thing. Then direct his talents toward the Treasury Department.

The U. S. Savings Bonds Division is loaded with certificates of merit for kids who do an outstanding job of selling savings stamps in their schools.

A real deal comes from the Secret Service. Youngsters who come to the special attention of the Secret Service receive cards that officially make them honorary junior members.

"WE ONLY HAVE a small supply of cards," says an official,

"and we're definitely not in the cereal box-top category. Requests have to be made on recommendation of our people in the field."

For kids who are somewhat older there's a wide range of opportunities in agricultural activities.

The U. S. Office of Education sponsors Future Farmers of America which emphasizes the educational end of agriculture. Members must be boys in public high school who are studying vocational agriculture. They do have to pay dues, which are 10 cents a year. Today there are 9,000 chapters and over 832,000 members.

Then there are the 4-H Clubs all over the country which are aided by the Federal Extension Service in addition to states and counties. More than two million boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 21 belong, and Uncle Sam spends at least 20 million dollars a year on them, according to one estimate at the Agriculture Department.

AIR - MINDED TEEN-AGERS can keep plenty busy in the Civil Air Patrol Cadet youth program. It's open to any boy or girl between 14 and 18 who is an American citizen and of good moral character.

He or she must take a serious course of study in the basic fundamentals of aviation and attend meetings once a week for drill and instruction. CAP cadets can buy and wear regular Air Force uniforms with their own insignia. They're also provided with an impressive membership and identification card. To date there are about 50,000 cadets.

Another Air Force auxiliary is the Ground Observer Corps which is open to anyone 18 or over who qualifies as a skywatcher.

This is a far cry, however, from becoming a Junior Forest Ranger. "All you have to do is be old enough to write a letter," explains William Huber, director of the program. "Address it to Smokey Bear Headquarters, Washington D. C., and say, 'Dear Smokey Bear, I'd like to become a Junior Forest Ranger.'"

"We get everything imaginable from children," adds Huber. "They send pictures of themselves, cards, drawings, lollipops and long letters to Smokey Bear."

See the possibilities parents?

Montgomery Ward Sales Top Billion

CHICAGO (UP) — Montgomery Ward and Co. sales for 1956 topped the billion dollar mark for the first time since 1952 with a reported $1,045,767,458, a 7.8 per cent increase over the $969,946,996 shown for 1955.

The company's annual report issued today said 1956 earnings amounted to $35,844,479, or $2.56 per share, compared with $35,441,946, or $2.62 per share the previous year.

To Prevent Hodge-Type Raids

Administration Bill to Reorganize Finance Dep't Introduced in HouseStratton Says Measure His Most Important

BULLETIN

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The Illinois House today passed Gov. William G. Stratton's anti-Hodge scandal bill to create a new department of financial institutions.

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—An administration measure designed to reorganize the Finance Department to keep closer tabs on state spending was introduced in the Illinois House today.

The bill contained many of the recommendations of the Morey-Jenner report on the 2 1/2-million-dollar Hodge scandal, and was drawn to help prevent future Hodge-type raids on the state treasury.

Gov. William G. Stratton said the proposal "represents a major step in the reorganization of Illinois government."

Stratton said the proposed legislation was "one of the most important, if not the most important" proposal he has outlined to the Legislature.

The measure, along with a companion bill, would set up three divisions in the Finance Department, each headed by a superintendent. The divisions would be accounts, administrative services, and budgets.

The accounts division would be responsible for obtaining periodic financial reports from all state agencies, and would make procedural audits to "insure proper internal controls" in each state agency.

Other Measures Introduced

The administrative services division, a "housekeeping" agency, would control state purchases, the leasing of unused state property, the state office building in Chicago, state printing, and the state property control program now under the auditor's office.

The existing division of department reports, the public information agency under the governor also would be placed under the administrative services division.

The budget division would assist the governor in preparing the biennial budget for presentation to the Legislature.

John S. Rendleman, who assisted in drafting the proposal, was also one of the drafters of the Morey-Jenner report by former Auditor Lloyd Morey and Asst. Atty. Gen. Albert E. Jenner.

Rendleman said the measure generally followed the Morey-Jenner recommendations, except that the Morey-Jenner report asked for a separate department of administrative services rather than on the division level.

The reorganization plan would become effective July 1 if it is enacted into law.

In other legislative action, a bill was introduced to limit the amount of interest charges that can be levied by automobile dealers. The bill would limit "financing" charges to $8 a year on new cars, $11 a year on cars up to 2 years old, $14 a year on cars up to 4 years old and $16 a year on cars over 4 years old.

Sen. Clarence E. Sprinkle (R-Assumption) introduced another bill that would make daylight saving time mandatory throughout Illinois from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in September. Failure to go on daylight time would be a misdemeanor.

29th Awards Spectacle

Annual Presentation of Movie
Oscars Will Be Held Tonight

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The Academy of Motion Pictures Arts and Sciences stages its 29th awards spectacle tonight to present "Oscars" for top achievements in films during 1956.

The event will originate in Hollywood and New York and will be carried by radio and television from 9:30 p. m. to 11:15 p. m. CST over NBC. (The program will be presented over WSIL, Harrisburg, beginning at 9:30.)

In Hollywood, filmdom's top personalities will convene at the RKO Pantages Theater to learn the results of the vote of the Academy's 1,170 members with comedian Jerry Lewis acting as master of ceremonies.

Actress Celeste Holm, winner of a 1947 award, will be mistress of ceremonies at New York's NBC Century Theater for presentation of the coveted "Oscars" to winners who are in the East.

Chief interest centered on the probable winners in the best actor, actress and picture categories.

Nominees for the best actor award were Yul Brynner for "The King and I," the late James Dean, "Giant," Kirk Douglas, "Lust for Life," Rock Hudson, "Giant," and Sir Laurence Olivier, "Richard III."

For the best actress, the nominees were Carroll Baker, "Baby Doll," Ingrid Bergman, "Anastasia," Katherine Hepburn, "The Rainmaker," Nancy Kelly, "The

Tells of Spending $85,000 on Items for Beck

Labor Consultant

Reimbursed by Union

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Chicago labor relations consultant testified today that he spent $85,000 of Teamsters Union money on a host of items ranging from nylon hose to love seats for Teamsters boss Dave Beck and his son.

The consultant, Nathan W. Shefferman, told the Senate Rackets Committee he didn't know the $85,000 came out of the union treasury until income tax investigators discovered it had. He said he paid the bills and, as it turned out, was reimbursed by the union.

As Shefferman testified, the ruddy-faced and rotund Beck waited in a chair a few rows away for a second appearance on the witness stand. Beck refused all day Tuesday to answer committee charges that he "may have misappropriated" more than $322,000 of union money. He invoked the Fifth Amendment's protection against self-incrimination.

Shefferman said he acted as Beck's purchasing agent because of their 20-year friendship. He didn't consider it improper to do so while at the same time acting as labor consultant for firms having contracts with the Teamsters Union.

Will Answer in Court

But Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said he had "some information and evidence" that the union showed favoritism to business firms which employed Shefferman's services.

Highlights of today's session included:

—A statement by Beck to reporters that he expects to be prosecuted on income tax charges. He said that at that time all the questions he has refused to answer "will come before a court of law and will be answered freely."

—Another Beck statement, made during a recess in today's session, that Shefferman also made purchases for William Green, late AFL president, "and many others... because he was able to buy at discounts."

—The reading by Shefferman of a long list of items he bought for the Beck's and his frank puzzlement over some of them, such as "kneedrawers" and "a watch for golf clubs."

In his talk with reporters Beck said he had not yet received an invitation to attend a meeting of the AFL-CIO executive council called for Friday to consider his use of the Fifth Amendment before the Senate committee. Beck also said he did not know whether he would attend the meeting.

Offer Prizes on Harrisburg Days

Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week brings another event to Harrisburg that should be of utmost concern to the buying public of the Harrisburg trade area.

The event is known as Harrisburg Days, with merchants making extra special price cuts on quality merchandise and a free award being given on each of the three days.

The Thursday prize will be a man's or woman's complete wardrobe.

Friday some person will receive the choice of a diamond ring or a month's supply of groceries.

Then on Saturday the person to guess closest to the correct weight of a hog, which will be on display, will win the hog and his or her choice of processing the hog or six month free feed for the animal.

Here is how the free awards will be given out Thursday and Friday:

At each participating store there will be entry blanks to be filled out without obligation. These blanks will be collected each day and a drawing will be made at the end of the day's business.

Strangler of Divorcee to Rewed in Jail

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Jackie Ray Lawson, 27, confessed strangler of a St. Louis divorcee, was to be remarried here today before returning to Missouri to face a grand jury in the slaying of Mrs. Credia Mallady, 29, Feb. 26.

Lawson and Geraldene Evans, 20, will be married in the office of Sheriff Ralph J. Paul, Lawson's previous marriage, to Miss Evans was illegal because it took place before a divorce from his first wife became final.

Paul permitted the marriage to Miss Evans because the couple has a 6-month-old son.

Two St. Louis detectives were to come here today to return Lawson who has waived extradition.

Mrs. Mallady's body was found wrapped in a blanket and stuffed in a muslin bag in Big Darby Creek near here March 16. Lawson admitted after taking a lie detector test that he killed Mrs. Mallady with whom he had been living in St. Louis.

He said the victim had attempted to prevent his return to Columbus to Miss Evans. Lawson told authorities he went to St. Louis to look for a job.

He said Mrs. Mallady threatened him with a knife when he tried to leave and during the ensuing struggle he strangled her. He placed the body in the trunk of his car and drove to Columbus where, March 5, he dumped it into the creek.

Educator Dies
Following Address

JACKSONVILLE, Ill. (AP)—C. C. Byerley, Illinois educator, died Tuesday night of an apparent heart attack after delivering an address before the Illinois Association of School Boards.

Byerley, first assistant to State Superintendent of Public Instruction Vernon Nickell, had spoken in a panel discussion at the spring conference of the Abe Lincoln Division of the association.

Byerley had been superintendent of schools at West Chicago, before joining Nickell's staff in 1943.

Tragic Note

Deaths of Five Soldiers
Mar Training Exercise

FT. POLK, La. (AP)—The nation's biggest 1957 Army training exercise opened today on a tragic note. Four soldiers were killed in a series of accidents before "Operation King Cole" began and a fifth died of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Three of the deaths occurred in truck accidents and one soldier was mysteriously shot to death.

The Army will test a new "penetration" organization for airborne and infantry combat units on make-believe atomic battlefields and try out new ballistic missiles in the 21-day maneuvers in Texas and Louisiana involving 25,000 troops.

Pfc. Albert L. Cooper, Port Arthur, Tex., died instantly Tuesday night when his Army truck crashed near Monroe, La. Robert J. Miller, 820 16th St., Logansport, Ind., died early today of injuries suffered in the same accident and Pvt. Swain Higgins, Royston, Ga., was hospitalized at Monroe with a broken jaw received in the truck mishap.

Sheriff Reports Mail
Boxes Thrown in Ditch

Sheriff William T. Barrett today said some mail boxes in the vicinity of the old Sahara 1 mine site have been pulled off their posts and thrown into a ditch.

Barrett pointed to the seriousness of the offense, reminding that such action is a federal offense, and offenders would be subject to federal charges being filed against them.

Dehydrated

West Point Cadet, Trapped in Freight Car Eight Days, Lives on Raw Potatoes

WEST POINT, N. Y. (AP)—A physical and mental checkup was planned today for an 18-year-old cadet who subsisted on raw potatoes while trapped in a freight car for eight days.

Army doctors said Jerome Lee Gibbons, a plebe (first year man) from Fulton, N. Y., had been dehydrated by his ordeal and had lost about 15 pounds. Although weakened physically, he was reported in good condition.

Gibbons was found lying atop several potato bags Tuesday by three loaders who were about to unload the freight car in the Jersey City, N. J., yards of the Erie Railroad, about 35 miles from the U. S. Military Academy.

The cadet told railroad police this story.

Fearing that he had failed a semi-annual physical test, he left the academy the afternoon of Sunday, March 17. "Because I just wanted to get away from it all,"

He then walked 20 miles to Campbell Hall where he climbed into the freight car, believing it to be headed upstate toward Fulton. The door then locked automatically and Gibbons found himself sealed in.

The next day, the car, loaded with potatoes, was moved to Jersey City where it sat at a siding until Tuesday. For days he banded on the box car door, but to no avail. Without water to drink Gibbons nibbled on the potatoes for subsistence. To keep warm, he huddled between the potato bags.

Believes Byrd Proposal Would Hurt SecurityCongress is Challenged to Decide Major Slashes

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today vehemently attacked piecemeal budget cuts by Congress as fatuous and the most foolish kind of economy.

As for a specific recommendation by Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) that the $71.8 billion budget for fiscal 1958 be cut by $5 billion, the President said he did not believe a cut of this size could be accommodated within the security and welfare requirements of the United States.

The President did not discuss the reported Florida trip directly at his news conference. But he did tell reporters he would like to get some more sunshine.

He said he was feeling better than before his trip to Bermuda. But he said he actually only got 2 1/2 days of sunshine and would like to get some more.

The President today showed some tan from the sun he got on the way to Bermuda. He didn't cough during the news conference, but at times his voice seemed a little husky. He appeared to have gained a little weight.

Byrd made that reduction proposal in a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate today.

In his most vigorous discussion of the budget to date, the President challenged Congress to decide for itself whether the American people wanted to cut down on payments to veterans, agricultural benefits and the construction of new schools. He said these are the only expenses that could be chopped down, because to reduce expenditures for defense, mutual aid and the Atomic Energy Commission would be to invite international trouble.

More Economy-Minded

Mr. Eisenhower's news conference ran unusually long—35 minutes—as he went to great length to support his budget against growing demands on Capitol Hill for sharp reductions.

He said savings undoubtedly were possible but he was somewhat amazed to notice recently that a number of persons were becoming more economy-minded than before.

He energetically rejected the idea of any major cuts in the defense or foreign aid programs. So the only places big cuts could be made would be such possibilities as the Post Office Department, now laboring under an undesirable deficit, fixed benefits for veterans, federal aid for school construction, and farm benefits.

He said he also wanted to point out that Congress has authorized many public works without proper preliminary surveys. He said he believed that Congress had done this obviously for political reasons.

Mr. Eisenhower said it was futile to talk about keeping up the United States' position in the world

Florida Girl Charges She Was Held Captive by Bennie Bedwell

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — A 14-year-old Florida girl told an extradition hearing Monday how she allegedly was raped and held captive for three days by Edward Lee (Bennie) Bedwell, once the prime suspect in the Grimes murder case in Chicago.

The girl, Barbara Jean Palmer, Oak Hill, Fla., testified at a hearing held on a request by Florida for extradition of Bedwell to face rape charges there.

Hearing officer Paul Hanson took the case under advisement after five hours of testimony and said he would prepare a report for Gov. William G. Stratton who will decide whether Bedwell should be returned to Florida.

The alleged rape victim, who was 13 at the time of the alleged assault, said she met Bennie while he was selling tickets at a carnival at De Land, Fla., in March, 1956, and "he let me go in the glass house free."

She said Bennie then asked, and got, permission from her parents to take her to a movie on March 9, 1956. She said they left the carnival grounds in a car with another young couple, named Lucky Kennedy and Carolann Haddock, but did not go to a movie. After driving a while, she said, the other boy was arrested for driving without a license.

Then she said, Bennie took her and the other girl to a golf course where they met a man identified only as "Indian John." She said Indian John assaulted the second girl, and that Bennie "slapped me" and forced sexual relations on her.

She said the next thing she remembered she woke up in an abandoned carnival trailer with Bennie, the other girl and Indian John.

The girl said she and the second girl stayed in the trailer until the night of March 12, although the two men left for various periods, because Bennie had threatened them if they left.

The girls were found by police the night of March 12, 1956.

The alleged victim's mother and the girl both testified they had been able to identify Bennie Sunday night in Chicago when they were taken to the Cook County jail to view him in a lineup.

Bennie's attorney, David Bradshaw, Chicago, attempted to show that Florida authorities never filed a warrant and never tried to take action against Bennie until after he was cleared of murder charges in the Grimes case. He also sought to show that the Florida authorities moved against Bennie only after being encouraged to do so by Cook County sheriff's police.

Former French Premier Dies

LYONS, France (AP) — Former Premier Edouard Herriot, 84, grand old man of French politics, died today.

The venerable statesman, who was honorary chairman of the National Assembly and president of the Radical Party, had been ill with bronchial trouble for two months.

Herriot was elected president of the National Assembly in January, 1947, and re-elected each year until 1953 when he retired because of his health.

Herriot was premier of France in 1924 and 1925, held the post again for one day in July, 1926, and became premier and foreign minister again from June to December, 1932. He held cabinet posts in other governments, and was president of the Chamber of Deputies from 1936 to 1942.

He and his wife were taken into "protective custody" by the Nazis in 1940 and interned in 1942. They were freed after the war.

Fleck Quits at Stratton Request

CHICAGO (AP) — Cook County Public Administrator Charles J. Fleck, accused of conspiracy in a $70,000 estate tax case, has resigned at the request of Gov. William G. Stratton.

Fleck announced his resignation late Monday in a telegram to Stratton. The governor acted after he learned a grand jury was considering an indictment against Fleck in his handling of the estate of Frank Rozanski, an immigrant Polish tailor who died in 1954.

Fleck awarded most of Rozanski's $50,000 estate to Mrs. Helen Campbell who claimed she was his sole heir.

Saline County Rural School Administrators Formed

On Thursday, March 21, C. Raymond Gardner, Saline county superintendent of schools, and principals from eight rural schools in the county met at the West Leford school and organized the "Rural School Administrators Association of Saline County."

Carl Brazz, of West Leford school, was elected president, Ben Brinkley of Milledge school, vice president and Roger Taylor of South Wilford school is secretary.

An invitation is extended to all rural school principals to attend the next meeting of the association, to be held Thursday, April 11, at 7 p. m., at the Green Branch school, just north of Eldorado.

Midget Held as Accomplice to Burglary Gang

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — A skinny, 43-pound midget was held today as an accomplice to a "highly professional" burglary gang.

Police said Charles Whitsell Jr., 16, was able to squeeze through small holes in doorings and unlock the doors from the inside for his confederates.

Authorities said Whitsell, who is only 45 inches high, and his two pals were accused of looting about 40 buildings of $18,000.

About Town And Country

They are not there now and we would like to know where they went because they would help us in our clean-up week and also the year 'round.

"We would like the assistance of everyone in Harrisburg and especially the people around the square. We want to try to make Harrisburg one of the cleanest towns in southern Illinois.

"Would you also tell us why the people around town who have these old, ramshackle houses couldn't do something about them? We are referring to the unoccupied ones, of course. They could clean them up a bit or tear them down if they have no use for them. They don't do anything toward beautifying our city.

"We can clean up our city if everyone is willing to help."

Regarding the cans, I guess they just deteriorated into uselessness, but maybe some more could be obtained if the city knew they would be put to good use.

And regarding the dilapidated, unoccupied houses: The Harrisburg fire chief, L. G. Martin, has been working hard on a program to get them torn down. He's done a good job, succeeding in getting a number of such buildings razed, but he's hit stumbling blocks in some instances.

Dulles Says UN Forces Should Stay in Mid-East

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said in effect today that the United Nations Emergency Force should remain in the Middle East despite Egypt's objections until there is assurance hostilities will not be renewed.

He also said chances of peace should be improved if Israel would permit U. N. forces to be stationed on her side of the armistice line. Israel is flatly opposed to this.

Egyptian sources have hinted that Egypt will not permit the U. N. Emergency Force to stay in territory under its control unless U. N. troops also are stationed in Israel.

But Dulles told a news conference he does not believe Egypt has any power to withdraw arbitrarily consent it has given previously to stationing U. N. forces in her territory until the U. N. mission is completed.

He added that since there is no assurance that hostilities will not be renewed it is possible to say the mandate of the U. N. force has not been exhausted.

In other news conference developments, Dulles:

—Said consideration is being given to seeking an advisory opinion from the International Court of Justice on whether ships of all nations have the right of innocent passage through the Straits of Tiran and the Gulf of Aqaba. In the past Egypt has blockaded Israeli shipping in the waters.

—Alternative plans for by-passing the Suez Canal by new pipeline and tankers are now in process.

Blonde Beaten On Quiz Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Vivienne Nearing, the gal who knocked off quiz champ Charles Van Doren, was tumbled herself Monday night by a lanky young medical research consultant.

Mrs. Nearing, a blonde attorney who works for Warner Bros., retired with $5500 and a grin.

"I only cried when I won," she said after the show. "There were no tears for my loss."

Mrs. Nearing, 30, was defeated on NBC-TV's "Twenty One" by Henry (Hank) Bloomgarden, a Cornell graduate who ran his stake on the show to $21,000 before evening's end. He did it by taking $10,500 from a $16,000 pile Mrs. Nearing had built and by winning another $10,500 from Dr. Henry Noble MacCracken, another contestant on the show.

Crews Work to Free Travelers; 34 Storm Dead

By United Press

The remnants of a four-day snowstorm swept into the East today, while in the West, rescue crews worked around the clock to free travelers and entire communities still isolated by the paralyzing fury of the blizzard.

Forecasters said the storm was largely spent, although it still packed enough wallop to dump 2 to 5 inches of snow in northern Illinois and Indiana, central and southern Michigan and southern Wisconsin during the night and today.

A United Press tally since the spring storm started Friday night showed at least 34 persons dead in weather caused mishaps in nine states. The toll included 9 killed in Illinois, 6 in Texas, 5 in Oklahoma, 3 each in Kansas, Nebraska and Indiana, 2 in Missouri, and 1 each in New Mexico, Iowa and Ohio.

Drifts 30-Foot Deep

The giant blizzard, described as the worst in history in some western states, buried parts of the Southwest under 30-foot drifts and more than two feet of drought-easing snow in the Nebraska and Iowa corn country.

New Consulates Opened in Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is stepping up its drive to swing Africa firmly into the free world camp with establishment of seven new consulates on the once dark continent.

State Department spokesman Lincoln White disclosed the plan Monday.

At the same time, Vice President Richard M. Nixon gave President Eisenhower an "informal report" on his 22-day African tour and visit to Rome.

Nixon gave the Chief Executive a country-by-country report on his personal conversations with leaders in the area. White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerly said it also would be "fair to say" he stressed the need for strengthening U. S. diplomatic and information activities in Africa.

Nixon plans to make a follow-up written report to the Chief Executive within the next week or 10 days. It presumably will be made public by the White House.

Establishment of the new consulates would be in addition to the State Department's previously-disclosed intention of establishing a new post of assistant secretary for African affairs. Congress still must provide funds for the post, however.

An estimated 7,500 travelers were stranded by the storm, but most of them were free or out of danger today.

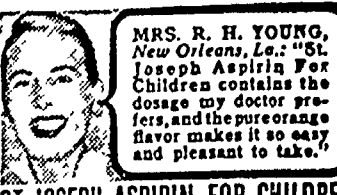

Wary rescue workers broke through huge drifts Monday night to reach the last two of six passenger trains stalled by the blizzard. School buses carried 256 persons from the snow-bound Union Pacific "City of St. Louis" to Winona, Kan.

Another crew pushed through to the Rock Island's "Golden State Limited," trapped near Liberal, Kan., with 223 passengers. A doctor had been flown in earlier to treat about 20 of the passengers who were overcome by lack of oxygen due to drifts covering the first five cars.

The Rock Island refugees were evacuated by railroad snowplow to Meade, Kan., where all were reported in good condition.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY
The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof, the world and they that dwell therein.—Psalm 24:1.

That includes all of us. But if we are God's children all good benefits to us too.

Raleigh Register

Opal Goodson, Correspondent

It is reported that three souls were saved at the Raleigh Baptist Mission at New Haven during the morning services recently. The Sunday school attendance is increasing and a recent record of fifty in attendance at Sunday school was established.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Weir attended a birthday dinner on Thursday honoring Mrs. W. C. Thomas of West Frankfort. Others attending were Rev. and Mrs. Clifford Sullivan of Thompsonville, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rogers of McLeansboro, Mr. and Mrs. Bayless Barnes of Herrin and Mrs. May Thomas and son, Danny.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Gates called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wiedemann on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Wiedemann, from near Equality, recently returned to her home from Pearce hospital where she had been a patient.

The Raleigh union of the W. C.
T. U. met Friday in the home of Mrs. G. C. Weir for a business and program meeting. Refreshments were served.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Dave Beck Is Big Real-Estate
Operator: His Family Goes
In For Beer—From Brewery
To Bar: It Was Harry Truman
Who First Got Curious About
Beck's Income Taxes.

WASHINGTON. — It has been known for some time that Dave Beck, potent harassed, and harried head of the Teamsters, was under income-tax scrutiny. But it has not been known how the investigation started. It can now be revealed that it was actually ordered by President Harry Truman and has been continued by Internal Revenue since.

Income-tax troubles are considered to be the reason why the big Teamster boss has been so francantly selling off big wads of real estate and why he also went behind the union's executive council to sell his home and his furniture to the union, even though the union had already paid for various repairs on the home, and thus
paid for part of it twice.

The skein of Beck's far-flung business operations is difficult to unravel. The tax agents have been working on it for some time
and find that he has real estate
all the way from the Washington,
D. C. suburbs to the west coast.

However, here is a quick look at
part of his financial empire:

Early in Beck's career his family got into the beer business. Not content with organizing the beer-wagon drivers Beck organized the brewery workers. They had their own union, but he moved in and made them part of the Teamsters.
Then Beck's nephew, Norman
Gessert, became president of Sunset Distributors which handles
Rainier beer in North Seattle.
Beck himself, with his wife, has owned about 1,000 shares of Rainier stock.

BUDWEISER AND BECK JR.
Dave Beck Jr. is also president of K and L Beverage Co., which now handles Budweiser. For a long time, no eastern beer was allowed to enter Seattle. The Teamsters wouldn't permit it. It was not distributed. But now
Dave Beck's son has the distribu-torship for Anheuser-Busch of St.
Louis.

Dave Beck's wife, Dorothy, also holds stock in K and L distributors
which sells not only beer, but whisky and wine as far north as Alaska. So the Beck family is right in the beer business from bar
back to the brewery.

The Teamsters' constitution, by the way, requires that its international president shall "devote all his time to the service of the brotherhood."

Another part of Beck's financial empire which the tax agents have taken a look at is his real estate
and his finance agency. The latter, the Northwest Securities
Corp., is an automobile finance
agency which does about $2,000-000 worth of business annually on new and used cars, plus auto insurance.

Beck has borrowed part of the money for his business ventures
from his own union, as he himself
said, to the tune of $300,000 to $400,000 without interest. He has also borrowed from the Occidental Life Ins. Co. of California, which handles the health and welfare
funds for 300,000 Teamsters in the 12 western states.

With this financial backing, Beck has acquired a large interest in the swankiest apartment house in Seattle, Grosvenor House. It's a 356-unit building located across from the T. A. M. S. T. H. H. H. H. H. worth about $3,500,000. A group of local business built it, made Beck chairman of the board.

Beck also organized the D and
B Investment Corp. and owns
part of the LBG Realty Corp.
Through them he has acquired
apartment houses, parking lots,
beer-distributing buildings, etc.,
etc., all around Seattle.

FAMILY SALES
Some of these were sold in a hurry when he was reported to be anxious to raise tax money.

They were sold in many cases to his family or to family corporations at very nice prices. For instance, Beck owned a piece of property on 14th Avenue in Seattle which was being used by Sunset Distributors, which is owned by his nephew, Norman Gessert,
by Mrs. Beck's niece, and by a Teamster official, Albert Irvine.
Beck had purchased the building for $45,000 in 1951 and sold it in 1955 to his family beer-distributor company for $100,000. He doubled his money in four years.

Beck also sold two lots on East Marginal Way to another of his family companies. A family firm,
the K and L Distributing Co., had been occupying the lots, and Beck
sold them to the Cosmopolitan Co.,
of which Dave Beck Jr. is president, with his nephew Gessert and
a Teamster official, Simon Wambold, officers of the company.

Thus it was hard to say where
Beck's interest began and left off.
At any rate he made a profit of $134,000 on the lots, having held them eight years.

THE UNION BUYS
Another interesting real-estate transaction was Beck's sale of two lots to his own union for $107,000.
The deeds show that Beck paid $1
each for the lots, which are located right across from Teamster Seattle headquarters, therefore obviously property the union
someday would need. However,
Beck bought them in 1951 for the registered price of $1 each, though there may have been some other unrecorded consideration.

At any rate, the Teamsters considered them valuable enough to buy them from Beck in 1956 for $107,000, which made some people wonder why they hadn't bought the lots in the first place. As president of the union, Beck could have let his union buy this valuable property instead of acquiring it himself.

Boyetts Having 'Time of Their Life' in Florida

Charles E. Boyett, Harco, who retired as an official of the Peabody Coal Co., when the dust recovery plant was shut down, is having the "time of his life" down
in Florida driving new Cadillacs, Pontiacs and several makes of
small foreign made cars.

He and Mrs. Boyett reside at Fort Pierce, and are personally acquainted with Don Reed and Ralph (Tubby) Horning, partners
in the Reed-Haughton Motor Co.,
dealers in automobiles. Reed and Horning are former Harrisburg
men.

Their cars are delivered to Jacksonville and Mr. and Mrs. Boyett
have recently been employed to drive the new cars on from Jacksonville to the dealer at Fort Pierce or to whatever customer
in Florida they are consigned. They usually travel from Fort Pierce
to Jacksonville by train, and then each of them drives back a new car.

Besides getting paid for driving
these lovely new cars, Mr. Boyett,
who is an expert mechanic, is employed three days a week building television antennas and putting together ornamental iron work.

Mrs. Boyett, who belongs to the Saline County Garden club, has joined the Fort Pierce Garden club
and has been the winner at several flower shows and flower arranging contests. She recently won third place in an arrangement contest.

In a number of Commerce fishing tournaments in January Mr. Boyett was a runner up for prizes with a 202 pound giant sea bass (Jew Fish).
The Boyetts, who own a modern home at Harco, intend to come back to Harco in May or June and sell their property here, that they may take up permanent residence in Fort Pierce.

SECRETARY OF STATE CHARLES F. CARPENTIER, left,

Book as he presents two volumes to State Senator Fred J. Smith of Chicago to be sent to the new independent republic of Ghana, Africa. The books are to accompany a copy of a resolution introduced into the State Senate by Senator Smith congratulating the new country on its independence and passed by that body. One of the books is a personalized copy for Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah, who was educated in America. The other is for the National Public Library of Ghana, which was started with a gift of 2,000 volumes from Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Mother Enrolls Sons In College Early

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. —
Mrs. William H. Martin is taking no chances that a predicted nationwide classroom shortage will crowd
her sons out of an education at the college of their choice.

She has enrolled her two boys at Rutgers University slightly ahead
of time.

Mrs. Martin has registered Robert, 12, for 1962 and Brooks, 10, for 1964.

"My purpose . . . is to get my boys in line," Mrs. Martin said. "I know it may not help, but it certainly will do no harm."

She wrote a similar letter to Dartmouth—just in case.

Mount Goodwin-Austen, in the Himalayan Mountains, ranks next
to Mount Everest in elevation.

Woodpeckers Don't Wreck Houses

CHICAGO — House owners
needn't rush out and get insurance
if a woodpecker starts drilling a hole in a wall, a zoologist says.

The fine feathered friend isn't going to wreck the house. He simply wants a nice, fat worm for dinner—or a cozy place to take a snooze.

Austin L. Rand, chief curator of zoology at the Chicago Natural History Museum, wrote in the museum's bulletin that estimating insurance risks were out of his line
but woodpecker habits were not.
So when an insurance adjuster
wanted information recently on the feathered jackhammers, Rand obliged.

Properly speaking, Rand said,
woodpeckers don't eat wood.

They chisel into wood in search of wood-boring insects. And they excavate nest sites and sleeping
places in wood—usually in a tree.
The insurance adjuster wanted to know whether the offending woodpecker and all its young would come back and keep drilling holes
until the house collapsed.

That's contrary to woodpecker
custom, Rand told the worried ad-juster. The birds usually scatter
out when they become full-grown
and independent, and the claim
they stake out next spring may be
far from the first nest.

The zoologist also assured his caller that it was improbable any house in the Chicago area would be sufficiently infested with insects
to attract a woodpecker year after year. Chiseling into houses usually would be for a nest or sleeping
place, he said.

Already Past Peak for 1960

Population Climb in U.S. Surpasses Predictions; See 228 Million by '75

By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (U)—The population of the United States is growing much faster than experts expected. It already has passed the "peak" it was supposed to reach in 1960.

The present rate of population increase—1.7 per cent a year—is more than double that of the 1930s. If it keeps up, America will have more than 228 million persons to feed, clothe, house, educate, employ and transport by 1975.

These facts now are receiving earnest attention at the highest levels of government and business. They have, in the words of Dr. Joseph S. Davis of President Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisers, "profound significance" for the future of the nation and for each individual who will be hunting a job going to college, buying a home or building a factory in the next 20 years.

Some results of the baby boom which has been underway since World War II already are obvious—in overcrowded elementary schools and mushrooming suburban housing developments. But other important implications of the rapid population growth "are not yet widely appreciated," Davis said in an interview.

Increased Consumer Demand

guess future birth rates, Davis pointed out some of the ways in which U. S. life will be affected simply by the growing up of babies already born:

—There will be a sharp increase in consumer demand starting in a few years, as postwar children reach their teens. Teen-agers eat more, they spend more for clothes and entertainment. They buy used cars, cigarettes, record-players and sports equipment. This increased demand will be a stimulus to economic expansion.

—The number of boys and girls reaching their 18th birthday—the traditional age for going to college or starting to work—will climb rapidly in the 1960s. Competition for jobs, especially the kind of jobs that offer a good beginning for a career, is likely to be intense. Getting into college may be even harder than finding a job. Population projections indicate that U. S. colleges will have to double their capacity in the next 15 years if they are to handle the tidal wave of applicants approaching their doors.

—The median age for marriage now is slightly over 20. As successive waves of postwar children arrive at this threshold age, there will be a big jump in the annual rate of "household formations." This is an economist's term for newly married couples who enter the market for homes, furniture and appliances. More household formations means a rise in demand for housing and durable goods.

Some economists, such as Prof. Joseph J. Spengler of Duke University, believe that rapid population growth poses a series long-range threat to U. S. prosperity. They foresee growing shortage of natural resources, rising costs of production as the pressure of demand forces industry to tap sub-marginal sources of raw materials, and a general downward slide in living standards.

A Stimulus to Business

Davis does not share this pessimistic outlook. He believes that America's long-range increase in productivity, which has been averaging 3 1/2 per cent a year, or about double the rate of population growth, can continue to raise living standards. He is also confident that scientific and technological advances will open up new sources of raw materials, as in the past.

He noted that a growing population acts as a stimulus to business: there is more incentive to invest in plant expansion if you know the future market will be larger. And the fact that the number of consumers is growing tends to bail out, in the long run, those industries which expand too rapidly through miscalculation of current demand. Thus a growing population can serve as insulation against serious depressions.

But Davis said population growth is no automatic guarantee

against short-run "adjustments" in the economy, some of which could be painful. No one can say with certainty, for example, that the expansion of consumer demand which lies ahead will create enough new jobs fast enough to avoid the possibility of considerable unemployment at some point in the expansion of the labor force. Feeding the increased population, Davis said, will be "the least of our worries." U. S. agriculture, which keeps piling up surpluses despite stringent government controls on planting, is capable of enormous expansion of output. Some "adjustments in diet"—such as eating more fish and less beef—may be necessary. But there is no real danger of a food shortage in this country in the foreseeable future.

Housewife Shrinks 10 Inches in Height Before Rare Malady Halted

BOSTON (AP)—A courageous Gulfport, Miss., housewife who shrank 10 inches in height before she beat a rare form of adult rickets says "I'm learning to live again."

The Boston Globe said in a copy-right dispatch today that Mrs. Thomas E. Clarisse had been able to discard her wheel chair before returning to Massachusetts General Hospital this week for additional medical attention.

Mrs. Clarisse, who had shrunk from 5 feet 5 inches to 4 feet 7 inches before her rare malady was arrested a year ago, will undergo tests to determine if she is well enough for corrective surgery. The operations would straighten and strengthen bones which were broken in some 24 places during 10 years of suffering with the ailment. "I have more energy than anyone who's never been sick at all," she said. "The only time I have to use crutches is for long walks or shopping in Gulfport."

The petite brunette, chic in a new rose dress, said she was doing all her own cooking, gardening, housecleaning and attending church and social functions. "I'm even learning to drive," she added.

Believe Two U. S. Aid Officials Killed, Woman Kidnaped

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two U. S. foreign aid officials are presumed to have been killed and the wife of one of them kidnaped by bandits in a remote mountain area of Iran, the government reported today.

The International Cooperation Administration identified the officials as Keven M. Carroll, 37, Issaquah, Wash.; Mrs. Anita Huovar Carroll, and Brewster A. Wilson, 35, Portland, Ore. Also presumed dead were two Iranian drivers.

The ICA said the U. S. embassy at Tehran notified it of the incident. Details were lacking, and the embassy said it had not been able to confirm the report.

According to the fragmentary information, the three Americans were being driven through Sardaz Mountain Pass in Baluchistan province of Iran Sunday when their car was attacked by bandits.

Carroll and Wilson presumably were killed, along with the two Iranian drivers, the ICA said.

Four Killed, Fifth Injured in Highway Collision

SAUK CITY, Wis. (AP)—Four persons were killed and a fifth was injured seriously Tuesday night when two cars and a truck collided at an intersection near here.

Killed were Milton E. Schroeder, 44, and his wife, 43, Reedsburg; Mrs. Paul Parks, 50, also of Reedsburg, and Russell John Seidal, 30, Madison. Injured was truck driver Bennett L. Greenwood, Grand Forks, Minn.

Police said a car driven by Seidal entered the intersection, ramming a car in which the other three victims were riding. The impact knocked the second car into the truck.

All three occupants were thrown from the car and the Schroeder woman was run over by the truck. Seidal, riding alone, crashed into the windshield of his car.

Soviet Threats Indefensible, President Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today branded as completely indefensible Russia's recent threats against Norway, Japan and other U. S. Allies.

He told his news conference that all nations have the right to take whatever measures they believe to be necessary to protect themselves.

The President made the remark when asked what he thought of such recent Russian statements as Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's warning to Norway that she would pay dearly if she allowed her territory to be used as a base against the Soviet Union.

He said he felt there were no grounds for the statements referred to and they were completely indefensible.

The President told newsmen on other foreign policy developments: —The movement of Saudi Arabian troops to the shores of Gulf of Aqaba may not have any great bearing on Israeli shipping through the narrow waterway. The actual passage of ships through the Strait of Tiran is much closer to the Egyptian shore which is controlled by United Nations forces.

—Plans to supply guided missiles to Britain and perhaps other nations do not mean any big new increase in U. S. production of fissionable material for nuclear warheads. The British, for example, already are producing their own.

Castle Rules Officials Must Itemize Expenses

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Atty. Gen. Latham Castle has ruled that his own expense accounts, and those of Gov. William G. Stratton and other state officials, henceforth must include the date for each expenditure.

Castle issued his ruling Tuesday at the request of State Auditor Elbert S. Smith who said he wanted to get a legal opinion on what the law meant when it said expense vouchers of state officials must be itemized.

Smith had held up Castle's February expense voucher pending the ruling. Castle submitted a new expense account—with dates—with his ruling, and Smith's office said it would be approved and paid.

The lowest official temperature ever recorded in the continental United States—70 degrees below zero occurred at Rogers Pass, Mont., in 1954.

Mrs. Shirley Oshel On Planning Committee For Nurses' Workshop

Mrs. Shirley Oshel, coordinator of nurses for the School for Practical Nurses being conducted in Harrisburg, has been selected to work on a planning committee for a statewide workshop to be held early in May.

The workshop will be held on the University of Illinois campus May 6-8 and members of the planning committee will meet in Springfield this week end to start plans for the workshop.

Found Dead of Gunshot Wound

Charles Edward Gentry, 33, who lived alone in Jefferson county near Dahlgren, was found dead in his home this morning. His death was the result of a gunshot wound presumably self inflicted. The funeral will be held in the Christian church at Belle Rive with burial in the I.O.O.F. cemetery at Dahlgren.

Monkeys, with one exception, are found only in regions where furnaces and furs are unnecessary. The exception is a large langur, the "monkey of the snows," found in the cold evergreen forests of the Himalayan foothills.

East policy.

Col. Nehemia Brosh, the Israeli army spokesman, announced the border incident with Syria. He said the Syrian troops fired for 20 minutes on the outskirts of the settlement of Dardara in northern Israel. He said Israeli troops returned the fire. No casualties were reported.

The second incident occurred late Tuesday when marauders opened fire with rifles and machine guns on a truckload of Israeli 36 miles north of the port of Eilat on the road to Beersheba. The driver sped out of the trap and reached safely in the south.

Israeli police rushed to the scene to investigate the shooting, and a spokesman said it was believed the raiders came from the Gaza Strip on their "usual one-way kill or die exploits."

Somerset

Mrs. Janie Conkle and Mrs. Gladys Williams visited with Mrs. Bluford Rose and Mrs. Hulda Swaney in Eldorado last week.

LaVerne Hathaway visited with Mrs. Velma Gasaway of Pankeyville recently.

Mr. and Mrs. George Myers Jr., of Pankeyville, were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hillis Steapleton and son J. R. The Steapletons are parents of Mrs. Myers.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Pankey of Harrisburg visited with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Conkle last week.

Mrs. Raymond Oxford was admitted to an Eldorado hospital last week for surgery for a foot ailment. She has now returned to her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Osman and children, Larry and Janet, and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Conkle have recently visited with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Conkle.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Vinyard of Atwood visited with Mrs. Vinyard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Williams, last week end.

Mrs. Ruby Anderson of Shawneetown and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Oxford and sons, Lowell and Charlie, E. R. Gholson of Broughton community and Jesse Heathman of Galatia RFD were Sunday evening visitors in the home of Herman Driskell.

Jim Reid Remains In Hospital with Serious Injuries

Jim Reid of Marion, former Carrier Mills resident, who was injured Thursday afternoon in an automobile accident, is still a patient in the Marion Memorial hospital where his condition is considered serious, but not critical.

His worst injury is to a hip. It is reported the femur bone was jammed through the hip socket and up the leg in traction in an effort to get the bone and socket back in place. If this treatment is not successful an operation will be necessary.

Other injuries include a fractured or sprained right arm, broken ribs, laceration above the left eye, cuts and bruises and an injury to the right eye. At first it was thought he would lose the sight of the right eye, but latest reports are that it will be alright.

New Mid-East Tensions by Arab Actions

By United Press

Israel reported today that Syrian troops opened fire on an Israeli settlement at midnight and that marauders from the Gaza Strip ambushed an Israeli truck Tuesday, seriously wounding one civilian.

Egypt's semi-official news agency reported in Cairo that Saudi Arabia had moved troops to the outskirts of the Jordanian port of Aqaba, but a Jordanian military source denied the report in Amman.

However other sources said the Saudis had moved troops all along the western shore of the Gulf of Aqaba in what could be the start of a new Arab move to blockade Israeli shipping in the narrow waterway.

The Arab moves sharply increased tension in the Middle East as U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold ended his Cairo mission and left for New York without solving the future of the Suez Canal or the U. N. Emergency Force.

The West was silent pending a formal report from Hammarskjold on his mission, but in Bermuda a highly informed source said "everybody accepts the fact that for better or worse Egyptians are going to operate the canal." The statement came after the Anglo-Canadian conference.

Syrian Border Incidents
The Saudi military moves followed a recent announcement that the nation would take "all measures" to prevent the establishment of any Israeli right to send ships through the Gulf of Aqaba.

Cairo sources said the move indicated Saudi Arabia was willing to relieve Egypt of the task of blockading Israeli shipping since Egypt is under heavy pressure and Saudi Arabia has emerged as one of the keystones in U. S. Middle

New Senate Building Gives VP Room to Work

NEW SENATE OFFICE BUILDING: No stenos in the closets.

By KENNETH GILMORE

NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Vice-President Richard Nixon may have solved his over-crowded domestic condition with a 21-room house, but he's still cramped for office space.

And there's not a thing he can do about it until some time in the fall of 1958. If all goes well, that's when Nixon and 40 lucky Senators will move into the 18 million dollar Senate Office Building now under construction.

One feature of the seven-story structure is a choice, first floor corner location for the V. P. It has a large inner office, three adjoining rooms for the staff and a reception room.

"It will be the largest suite in the building," says Harvey Middleton who's directing the project for the Capitol architect.

Nixon's present quarters in the old Senate Office Building consist of four rooms which are "terribly cramped," according to one of his 13 staffers. He would actually hire more help if he had the space.

Covering half a city block, the marble-faced structure will give many solons a chance to let their secretaries out of closets, thanks to well-proportioned five-room suites.

Nearly 200 cars will be able to park in the two stories below street level. A basement in the gymnasium will also allow legislators to flex their muscles, play handball or receive rubdowns. During the summer they can bask on a special senatorial sun-deck.

Original plans calling for a swimming pool were thrown out for economy reasons.

In addition to a large dining room for Senators, a cafeteria will seat 700 people at a time and take care of more than 2,000 people during a heavy lunch hour. A 500-seat auditorium specially designed for national television with a walled-off studio will meet the demands of spectacular committee hearings.

Eight rooms in the new building will be set aside for a school for Senate pages. There will also be 12 spacious committee rooms.

Two pedestrian tunnels will connect the new building to the old and eventually a modern subway will run directly to the Senate.

Americans consume about 8,500,000 hot dogs annually.

John Adams was the first president to occupy the White House at Washington, D. C.

Easter: Soft, Dressy, Caped

The soft and dressy look of clothes for Easter Sunday, 1957, is clearly shown in these three designs which include a suit, a dress and dress with jacket. There's a short cutaway jacket (left) for this suit by Ben Zuckerman. The soft look of this beige-and-white checked wool suit is heightened by a white silk blouse with bow. Pale beige silk crepe afternoon dress, ideal for an Easter brunch, has gentle draping. There's a shallow, scooped neckline in this Adele Simpson design. Waist-length jacket lends a suit look to this dress of gold herringbone tweed. Designed by Roxane, slim dress has scooped neckline and short sleeves. Open neckline of the jacket is filled in with scarf of gold chiffon in two shades.

75-Year-Old Woman Is Victim of Old Confidence Game

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—A 75-year-old widow from Centerville Township has been victimized in an ancient confidence game—the so-called "pigeon drop."

Police said Mrs. John W. Kelley lost her life savings—$1,100—to two strange women here Tuesday.

Mrs. Kelley reported the loss to police after she had taken her money out of the Union National Bank and entrusted it to one of the women.

The pattern of the scheme was the usual one: One woman approached Mrs. Kelley to report her friend had found some cash, offered her a share and asked her to put up her money to show "good faith."

Both women disappeared shortly after receiving the money.

Continue Hearing On Order to Sell Hodge's Hotel

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—A hearing on a state motion to cancel an order for sale of Orville E. Hodge's Florida hotel for $522,500 so that a new offer of $575,000 can be accepted has been continued to April 1.

Circuit Judge De Witt S. Crow continued the hearing Tuesday after hearing daylong arguments in favor of the new offer by attorneys for the state and for Mrs. Margaret Hodge.

The court on Feb. 26 had approved sale of the Esquire Hotel at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., for $522,500 to Michigan Typewriting Co., Detroit. But then the state was unable to close the deal because Mrs. Hodge moved into the hotel's $100 a day penthouse suite and refused to vacate or sign a quit-claim deed.

Then the new offer of $575,000 was made by Charles A. Pitts, Miami, a reported friend of Mrs. Hodge.

In addition to being higher than the previous offer, Pitts' offer included a provision that he would be responsible for Mrs. Hodge's continued occupancy of the hotel.

Thus, attorneys for the state argued, would solve the state's problem of evicting Mrs. Hodge from the hotel.

Biggest of All Giant Teamsters Union Stretches Across Nation With 1,500,000 Members

By MAUREEN GOTHLIN
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Teamsters Union's sprawling domain includes "everything on wheels that runs in the street" and then some.

The biggest union of them all stretches across the country, through the trucking industry into warehouses and businesses of all kinds. Its 1,500,000 members include women on food cannery assembly lines, brewery workers, dairy processors, construction workers, gasoline station mechanics and even some automobile salesmen.

Core of its power and influence, among other unions as well as industries, are the truck drivers who form the nucleus of its membership. They haul everything from our daily bread to automobiles fresh off the assembly line.

Has Tripled Membership

The trucking industry estimates three of every four tons of freight moved in this country is hauled on trucks at least part of its journey. Nearly 20 per cent of all freight between cities goes by truck, including most of the nation's livestock, poultry and eggs and more than half its fruits and vegetables. The industry estimates there may be around 150,000 trucking firms.

The union still has a long way to go to organize the entire industry but it has almost tripled its membership in the past 15 years. As a union dealing with thousands of firms, it deals from strength.

The Teamsters Union, for instance, is the target of a substantial number of the secondary boycott charges filed with the National Labor Relations Board.

The usual case centers on a non-union trucking company. Virtually all trucking companies operate within a limited area and depend on other trucking companies to carry the goods farther. If Teamster members employed by other companies refuse to handle the goods, the non-union employer is under pressure to deal with the union to keep his business.

In industries such as canneries, breweries and dairies, which are dependent on truck drivers, Teamster strikes have led to wage contracts covering production workers as well.

Can Make or Break

Where another union is on strike against a company dependent on trucks for supplies and deliveries, the decision by the Teamsters on whether to "honor" the picket lines or drive through them frequently can make or break the strike.

The Teamsters is one of the few AFL-CIO unions that has refused to sign the AFL-CIO "no-raiding" pact prohibiting affiliated unions from taking members away from each other. Union President Dave Beck's argument is that other unions, particularly the Brewery Workers, have truck-driving or warehouse members who "belong" to the Teamsters.

In an effort to profit instead of suffer from the Teamsters' persuasive power, a number of other unions including the machinists, bakery workers, upholsterers and meatpackers, have signed individual agreements with the Teamsters for "joint" organizing drives.

Teamster leaders boast that their members' wage contracts are "the best in the country." Wage rates for over-the-road truck drivers in the midwestern states are $2.30 an hour plus substantial fringe benefits.

Henry, Morris Tell of School Building Needs

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The University of Illinois is not worried about getting too large, President David D. Henry told the Illinois Senate Tuesday.

Henry testified at a committee of the whole hearing on Gov. William G. Stratton's $238 million bond issue proposal to "catch up" on building needs at state colleges and universities and welfare institutions.

The Senate also heard Southern Illinois University President D. W. Morris concerning "neglected" building needs at SIU.

The committee hearing was set again for next week after Sen. Dennis J. Collins (R-DeKalb) asked for a restudy of the building needs for the four state teachers colleges.

Representatives of the four colleges will be asked to attend next week's hearing.

The U. of I. would get $86 million from the proposed bond issue, and Henry said priority needs on which there could be no delay added up to $27,085,000.

He said $1,536,000 also was urgently needed as matching funds for federal grants and private gifts.

When the bond issue bill was first heard last week, Sen. David Davis (R-Bloomington) commented that some persons believe the U. of I. may be getting too large.

Henry, questioned about the possibility of the university enrollment climbing to 30,000 within the next few years, said such an enrollment would not be too large "if we can give the students the individual and proper attention" needed for a thorough education.

Morris said capital improvements were needed at SIU to offset "the detrimental effect of 24 years of neglect."

Under Stratton's proposal, SIU would get $41 million, the teachers colleges $30 million, and welfare institutions $81 million.

Found Guilty Of Contempt

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal jury has found Seymour Peck, a deskman for the New York Times Sunday department, guilty of five counts of contempt of Congress.

The conviction Tuesday stemmed from Peck's refusal under the First Amendment to the Constitution to name other persons as Communists during testimony before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee.

Judge Luther Youngdahl allowed Peck to remain free on bond pending appeal. No date was set for sentencing. Maximum penalty for the charge is one year in jail and $1,000 fine.

$5 Billion Cut Dangerous

He added that some people become highly economy conscious without knowing what they are talking about.

When he was asked specifically about Byrd's recommendations for a $5 billion cut, the President said he did not believe a cut of that size could be made without danger to the basic defense and security programs of this country.

The President said the House and Senate must look at basic programs which they themselves had voted.

Frequently raising his voice, the President said let some one older than he say it is not necessary to meet fixed obligations to veterans; let someone else say a healthy agriculture is not necessary; let someone else say that efforts to relieve the school room shortage are not necessary.

He took another example—the Post Office Department—which he said had put into effect about all of the economies possible without further reducing mail service. He said it would be up to Congress to decide whether the people of the United States should have a decreased postal service.

Young, live at 804 Elder street, Eldorado, was graduated March 22 from the linemen's course at the Army's Southeastern Signal school, Fort Gordon, Ga. The eight-week course trained Young to construct and maintain both open and lead covered field communication wires and cables. He entered the Army in October 1956 and completed basic training at Fort Carson, Colo.

No Contempt Action Seen Against Beck

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dave Beck, heavyweight head of the Teamsters' Union, skated on thin legal ice in his testimony before Senate investigators Tuesday. But he apparently did not fall through.

The Senate Rackets Committee counsel said he did not believe the group would try to cite Beck for contempt of Congress.

Though Beck cited a galaxy of reasons for refusing to give up his personal records or answer questions, he always managed to include some reference to the Fifth Amendment. This is a constitutional protection against possible self-incrimination.

The Senate Rackets Committee prodded him sharply several times on whether he really meant it Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) once sternly warned Beck he would be in contempt unless he swore his answer to a certain question would tend to incriminate him.

Beck promptly abandoned the embroidered language he had been using to balk and said his answer might tend to incriminate him.

The same Fifth Amendment—which says no person can be compelled to be a witness against himself in a criminal case—protected Beck when he refused to hand over his personal records, even in the face of a committee subpoena.

Challenge Overruled

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy told newsmen that, as a practical matter, he did not believe the committee will try to cite Beck for contempt even though his dependence on the Fifth Amendment was not distinct.

Congress generally accepts a plea of the Fifth Amendment as a reason for not answering questions.

Before coming down to the naked admission his records and answers might incriminate him, Beck used fancier terms.

He started with a challenge to the committee's authority, claiming it was straying out of the legislative field. He said this violated Articles 1, 2 and 3 of the U. S. Constitution, which set forth the powers of Congress, the President and the courts.

The committee summarily turned down this reasoning by majority vote. Beck kept reciting it. McClellan kept overruling it.

Beck also invoked the Fourth Amendment, which protects citizens against unreasonable search and seizure of their papers without a proper warrant. This also was rejected by the committee.

Cahokia Band Visit To Carrier Mills Delayed Until Tuesday

A visit to Carrier Mills by the Cahokia high school band, scheduled for Thursday, has been postponed until Tuesday of next week, it has been announced by Carl Dillow, CMCHS principal.

Senior class members of the Cahokia band are on a school-sponsored trip to Washington, D. C., and the visit to Carrier Mills has been postponed until all band members will be able to make the trip.

Plans call for the Cahokia high school band to visit at Carrier Mills throughout the school day, making a class-to-class visit of the school and presenting a concert in the afternoon.

Twining Named Chairman Joint Chiefs of Staff

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower in a major shakeup of the nation's military command has nominated the Air Force chief of staff, Gen. Nathan F. Twining, to be chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Twining will assume his new post this summer to succeed Adm. Arthur W. Radford. It will be the first time an airman has held the top military post.

The President also nominated Air Secretary Donald A. Quarles to be deputy secretary of defense.

Many persons here believe Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson will resign later this year and that Quarles then will succeed him.

The President also nominated:—Undersecretary of Air James H. Douglas to be secretary, succeeding Quarles.

—Gen. Thomas D. White to be Air Force chief of staff, succeeding Twining.

—Adm. Arleigh A. Burke for re-appointment to a second two-year term as chief of naval operations.

The only top service chief not touched in the shuffle was Gen. Maxwell Taylor, Army chief of staff. His term does not expire until June 29, 1959.

Marketing workers in the United States have increased from 3,500,000 to more than 5,000,000 since 1929.

Controls Have Been Under Study by Two Gov't Agencies.

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA) — Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks' press conference statement that the Eisenhower administration had no plans, no studies and no disposition to take the road back to government controls of prices and wages isn't the whole story.

His statement may have applied accurately to his own Department of Commerce. But it overlooks two important studies of inflationary controls. These have been going on in Washington for a long time in the Office of Defense Mobilization and the Federal Reserve Board.

Weeks amended his repudiation of direct inflationary control studies by saying that the Federal Reserve Board was an independent agency, not a part of Ike's administration.

But for over a year, the board has been studying consumer credit controls at President Eisenhower's own request, relayed through his Council of Economic Advisers.

Summary of the study will be released by mid-March, if they get printed by then. It will be in five but volumes.

Not only will it read all the live volumes. But they will contain a review of arguments for and against consumer credit control. The staff study is being prepared under Ralph Young, head of FRB's economic research. He has worked in a negotiation with the congressional economic and banking committees.

There will be no recommendation from the FRB's board of government, economists figure, however, on whether controls should be applied now. In an important detached manner, they're leaving the answer to that question to the annual question to the President and Congress.

fense Mobilization (ODM) has been making are much more specific. But these planned controls are intended for use only in time of war.

Under Edward F. Phelps, assistant director for stabilization, ODM has now developed full plans for complete controls.

Two years ago, when Arthur S. Flemming, ODM director, was preparing to ask for renewal of the Defense Mobilization Act, there was a plan to have Congress give the President stand-by authority to impose these controls in time of emergency.

Before this could be done, however, President Eisenhower backed away from it. He decided that if controls ever became necessary Congress would grant him the authority without question.

It can be stated authoritatively that there is no change in this policy today. The Defense Mobilization Act expires again next June 30. Congress will be asked for another renewal by new ODM Director Gordon Gray. But there is no intention of asking Congress for stand-by price and wage control authority.

Most of the ODM plans are classified as secret. But there is a feeling among ODM planners that some day their proposed economic control system should be made public as a matter of national preparedness.

It isn't considered wise to scare people with this kind of information now. But gradually, over the next generation, economists figure it will become fashionable to be trots should be applied now. In an important detached manner, they're leaving the answer to that question to the annual question to the President and Congress.

The studies of price and wage controls which the Office of Defense Mobilization is studying under existing controls, which the Office of Defense Mobilization is studying under existing

Questioned at Du Quoin in Fatal Shooting

DU QUOIN, Ill. (UP) — Billy Carson Buntun, 23, a Navy veteran and part-time lumber yard worker, is being questioned by authorities here in connection with the fatal shooting of another man after a drinking party Monday night.

State's Atty. Lloyd Middleton said charges are pending against Buntun. Dead is John Hunter, 32, an unemployed Army veteran who was shot through the neck.

Authorities said the same bullet which killed Hunter wounded William J. Wendling, 26, an Army veteran and part-time farm laborer in the right hand.

Middleton said Buntun claimed the shooting was an accident. The state's attorney quoted Buntun as saying he put a 22-caliber target pistol in the ice box at the Elmer Royster home when he came there. Buntun said the gun accidentally discharged as he was getting it out of the ice box when leaving, according to Middleton.

Du Quoin Police Chief Vallie West said Buntun voluntarily surrendered at a hospital where Hunter was pronounced dead upon arrival.

Television Film to Stress Continuing Fight To Finish Job on Polio

A dramatic television program of special interest in the continuing fight to "finish the job" against polio will be seen here soon. To be telecast as a public service on station WSIL-TV at 8:30 p. m. on April 7, the special half-hour program is an episode in the inspirational TV series "This Is The Answer."

Titled "Shadow of Tomorrow" the episode depicts two of the services made possible by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and the March of Dimes. Showing emergency use of the "iron lung" and rehabilitation work to help restore a polio sufferer to normal life, the film also emphasizes the importance of family cooperation and spiritual values in aiding recovery. It also points out that the disease is no respecter of seemingly healthy persons of any age.

Non-denominational in presentation, "This Is The Answer" is produced by the Radio and Television Commission of the Southern Baptist Convention as a guide to happier living through the message of Christian principles in today's life.

House Defeats Bill to Repeal Controversial Splash Guard Law

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—The Illinois House Tuesday defeated a bill to repeal the controversial 1955 law requiring contour splash guards on trucks, after a debate that included references to "padding the pockets" of former Democratic Gov. John Stelle.

The bill got only 74 votes, of 89 required for passage. There were 67 votes against, with 36 members not recorded or voting present.

The House then passed, 131-20, a bill to amend the 1955 law to exclude farm trucks, dump trucks, cement mixers and trucks which operate primarily within a city from the act.

Rep. Paul Simon (D-Troy) said he had investigated the ownership of a number of firms which manufacture the contour truck guards.

He said he found that one of the companies, Contour Truck Guards Inc., Chicago, has as its officers friends and business associates of Stelle.

He said that last session the Legislature, on the same day it passed a sales tax increase, passed a bill to reduce the taxes paid by the Cahokia Downs and Fairmount race tracks. He said Stelle was a major stockholder in Cahokia Downs.

Simon questioned whether the contour truck guard law was designed to "pad the pocketbooks of the same race track crowd that got the tax bonanza" in 1955.

Simon also charged that Democratic members of the Legislature had been pressured by the party leadership and Republican members had been pressured by Gov.

William G. Stratton to oppose the repeal of the bill.

This brought cries of denial from several legislators, including Rep. Paul Powell (D-Vienna), who is a friend of Stelle and who supported the original 1955 law. Powell denied that any pressure had been exerted on him, but conceded that he had directed a man interested in manufacturing contour guards to Stelle as a possible investor.

He said Stelle had a $750 investment in the Chicago truck guard firm. Powell defended the 1955 law and opposed the repealer, which he said was being pushed by "the big truck lobby."

Powell said the argument on the bill was a matter of deciding between 3½ million automobile drivers who have no big lobbyists, versus 125,000 big truckers.

He charged the big truckers were "hiding behind the farmers" in seeking to get the 1955 law repealed.

Powell also denied claims that the contour type guards required by the law cannot easily be purchased. He said such guards are advertised in the Sears-Roebuck catalogue.

Democrats and Republicans alike arose to deny Simon's charges that pressure had been brought to bear on them to oppose the repeal bill.

Scenic Wonder of Southern Illinois

By L. A. Dearing

One of the Seven Scenic Wonders of Egypt, according to the Ozarkers, is the Garden of the Gods, down in Saline county, east of Herod. This garden has no water display. But here is a gigantic array of rocks in all manner of shapes, colors, and structures, with anvils galore, balanced rocks, caves, perilous heights, and deep-cut chasms—the Gods must have had a high-ho time when they built this garden.

The Garden is spread along the old Salt Road, which connected E-town with the salt works at Equality, and which once was a main highway, well-travelled, back in 1878, when the old Colbert house was built. Beyond the Colbert house that part of the old Salt Road which is not abandoned is impassable in wet weather, even after a heavy dew. In some histories this road is called "The Road of Anvils"—nearly a mile beyond the Colbert house is Anvil Rock, gateway to the Garden of Anvils, and to the Garden of the Gods.

South and in sight from Anvil Rock are Sentinel Rocks, the first of the formations in the central section of the Garden. Beyond these are the Castle Rocks, and then Camel Rock, the most important formation in the area. Here, also, is Pulpit Rock, where worship services are held when the color tours visit the area. Nearby are the Camel Driver, and many other formations which as yet seem to be unnamed.

Beyond Pulpit Rock is the south-east section of the Garden. Capping a high cliff is a balanced rock. Box canyons are cut into the mountain, and in some of these are small, shelter caves. One formation resembles a ship's prow. Just beyond this ship's prow is what appears to be a large crevasse, but actually is the opening of a cave. Mr. Art LaSalle of Mt. Vernon, who has been doing considerable exploring in this area, is, perhaps, the first man in recent years, and outside the area, to examine this crevasse and establish the presence of a cave.

West from the Anvil, up Moccasin Hollow, is a third section—the Garden of Anvils. A high, steeply sloping cliff rises above a narrow gorge. Atop these cliffs are free-standing formations, many of which resemble anvils sufficiently to give the area its name. One of these formations is called "Dinosaur Rock", and "Balanced Rock"; between the strata in this rock daylight can be seen, and on the pointed end, when viewed from the west, is a natural design which resembles, without much imagination, an Indian pictograph of a bear. The very name, "Crying Crocodile", suggests another formation, this one near the head of the gorge. Along the line of cliffs from Anvil Rock, is, according to LaSalle, a sizeable shelter cave, and other curious formations. Across Moccasin Hollow, south, is "H" Rock, a very realistic formation which is to be found some sixty feet up on the sheer face of a cliff.

One distinguishing feature of all these formations is the effect of weather-wearing. A lower, and softer layer of stone has weathered away into grotesque shapes. A harder overlay has weathered more slowly, leaving a pillar-with-cap effect. The term "Anvil Rock" suggests the appearance of many of these formations.

created by the leaching away of the original minerals, and the substitution of other minerals, mainly iron oxide. Thus have been formed alternating layers of this oxide and of the softer stone, in irregular, colorful ribbons, at times wave-like, at times in whorls, and in rings, but always an interesting enigma to the layman. One of these formations, near Anvil Rock, resembles a flower, hence the name "Flower Rock."

The Garden of the Gods is big, and sprawling, and spectacular. Visitors are intrigued by the variety of the formations, and by the oddities found in the rock structures. First trippers are awed by the terrifying heights of the crags, and by the deep gorges. To the south, looking towards Golconda, is an open vista of tree-clad hills rolling on in panoramic splendor. The Garden of the Gods is at its best during the season of spring flowers, and in the autumn when the area is rich with the red, and gold, and purple of a forest preparing for winter.

To reach the Garden take Route 34 south out of Harrisburg, and turn left on the gravel immediately after crossing the bridge in Herod. This gravel road leads over two ridges and then down into a hollow in which a small stream is forced five or six times—watch for deer. Keep on the gravel at all times. At major intersections keep right, always.

The last stretch of road is up a long, rocky hill, at the top of which is the Colbert house, previously mentioned—Mr. Colbert is friendly and sociable, and is helpful with information. Beyond the Colbert house the road becomes a trail, which winds through a pine plantation. When large rocks are sighted the road divides into a turn-around, where cars should be parked. Not far to the right (west) is Anvil Rock.

2nd Circuit Endorse GOP Judge Crebs

CARMI, Ill. (U)—A Republican incumbent 2nd Circuit judge from Robinson won the endorsements of his own party and the Democrats in conventions Monday at Mount Vernon and Carmi.

Judge Caswell Crebs was nominated by the GOP at Mount Vernon Monday morning, then was endorsed by the Democrats who met at Carmi.

Crebs, who is finishing his 12th year on the bench, has strong Republican support in his home county of Crawford plus Lawrence and Wabash counties.

The Republicans also nominated attorneys Roy Gully of Benton and Randall Quindry of Fairfield. The other two Republican incumbents—Ben Eovaldi of Benton and Charles Randolph of Carmi—are not seeking re-election.

The Democrats nominated Crebs and two members of their own party—attorney Robert Hill of Benton and James Karber of Ridgway. Hill is the son of former Circuit Judge Joe Hill. Karber is a former state representative and Gallatin county state's attorney.

The 2nd Circuit includes Crawford, Edwards, Franklin, Gallatin, Hamilton, Hardin, Jefferson, Lawrence, Richland, Wabash, Wayne and White counties.

The Little Boy Who Never Stops Laughing

NEA Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — This is about a little boy in Hollywood who never stops laughing.

His name is Richard, and he's a recently discovered victim of dreaded leukemia.

He's nine years old, with red hair and a face full of freckles.

He's always laughed a great deal because his father is Red Skelton.

Richard's very first laugh, when he was only 18 months old, meant more to his dad than the acclaim of millions. Even if Red did have to squirt ink all over his famous face and expensive clothes, and was late to the studio that morning.

At nine, Richard's still laughing. More than ever.

His daddy wants it that way. "What are you giving up for Lent?" he'll ask Richard.

Richard replies: "My school homework."

Then both fall on the floor and roll around, laughing hysterically.

There's an expensive model train set covering two ping pong tables in the sitting room outside Red's bedroom. Richard, an engineer's cap atop his red hair, sits on a stool. Red wears an engineer's cap, too, and with the comedian at the controls the wreckage is something fearful.

Richard never stops laughing about it all.

Richard never stops laughing. Richard is old enough now to stay up past his bedtime and watch his daddy's TV show which doesn't come on the air until 9:30 in Hollywood. Red talks back to himself on the screen as they watch the delayed kinescope, and Richard never stops laughing.

Richard has become one of his dad's radio characters, "the mean widdle kid," in some home movies Red is making. Almost anything goes. There is no script. The film supply is endless.

"Now in this scene," Red announces to Richard, "you pick up the book, throw it at the wall and then you sneak outdoors and push a chair into the swimming pool."

Richard never stops laughing. "Why does a chicken cross the street?" Red suddenly will ask Richard at the dinner table. "To get on the other side," replies Richard. Then both fall on the floor and roll around—and Richard never stops laughing.

The Air Force sent Richard one of those test pilot helmets—the Man From Mars type. Red puts it on, struts around and then tries to take it off. It won't budge.

"Daddy's caught again!" Richard alerts everyone in the house.

Everyone rushes in and for half an hour Red struggles to free himself, making it look so difficult it's fabulous.

Richard never stops laughing. Red Skelton frequently wanders through the novelty and toy stores in Westwood Village near their Bel-Air home. His arms are full of packages when he returns home to hide them in a closet. Now and then Red announces to Richard:

"Here's a little present I bought for you."

It's always some amusing gift, or the remarks with which Red wraps the packages, to make Richard laugh.

Red likes to hear his only son laugh.

Making people laugh, after all, is Red Skelton's business.

It's easy when you are trained for it.

But not so easy sometimes, as any comedian will tell you.

British losses in the Battle of New Orleans were 2,000, compared to 71 Americans, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Most bank run gravel in North Dakota is too dirty and too fine to make strong concrete.

By Frank Gruber

XXIII
Morgan closed the door. Helen sat behind the rough desk. Jagger on a chair beside her. Jagger's face was as bruised as Morgan's own, possibly a little more.

"My brother," Helen went on, "does not care to discuss any other topic than the one for which we summoned you here. Namely, the dissolving of the firm of Jagger & Morgan."

"Ask your brother," Morgan said, feeling ridiculous even as he spoke. "Does he expect me to buy him out, or does he intend to buy my share?"

"My brother is not in a position to buy your half interest in the firm," Helen Jagger said stiffly. "and since I am the keeper of the records, I know that you are not in a position to buy him out."

"Just what is my position?" "I will read you the figures." She dropped her eyes to the books. "The townsite of Pawnee City, or as much of it as still remains unsold, consisting of business and residential lots. Value $200,000."

"Bought," said Morgan, "for $20 and two bottles of whiskey."

"Approximately 1,000 acres of prairie land adjacent to Pawnee City. $10,000."

"Five thousand acres of prairie land, recently purchased, $50,000."

"When did we acquire that?"

"The Drovers Hotel, $25,000."

"The Longhorn Saloon, $25,000."

"The Pawnee City Bank, $50,000."

"Stockyards and loading pens, $50,000."

"Six business buildings, vacant or leased, $50,000."

Helen paused to take a deep breath. "Total assets, $460,000."

She picked up another sheet of paper: "Liabilities, $31,650 owed various firms in Kansas City, from building of property in Pawnee City. Various and sundry miscellaneous bills, $12,550.62."

Morgan said, "Well, I put up $12,500 in cash. I'll sell out my interest for 50 thousand—"

"I have already told you," Helen said patiently, "that Mr. Jagger is not in a position to buy you out. He prefers to divide the assets—"

"And the debts?"

"Since he took the responsibility of incurring them, he will assume them."

"All right," Morgan said, "how do we divide? Straight down the line? He takes the hotel, I take the bank—"

"The hotel," Helen said, "the saloon, the bank, the stockyards and loading pens AND the six business buildings have a total value of $200,000. Mr. Jagger says he will accept these assets and assume the bills and debts. He believes he is being more than fair in permitting you to have the unimproved property in Pawnee City, the 6,000 acres of farmland, with a total valuation of $260,000."

"Tell Mr. Jagger I accept his generous offer," Morgan said tautly. "He can have the papers drawn up."

Joe Jagger and the slate of unopposed candidates were elected on Aug. 1.

The day following, a cowboy galloped his horse up and down the street. Of course he also discharged his revolver a number of times. He aimed mainly at the blue sky but one of his shots went wild and struck a horse tied to the hitchrail in front of The Longhorn Saloon.

The horse happened to be a newly purchased mount, belonging to Wild Jack Mason, who spent about four hours every afternoon and about the same time every evening, playing faro in The Longhorn. He also spent a few hours at The Texas Saloon.

Someone told Wild Jack that his horse had been wounded by a stray bullet. Wild Jack waited until the faro dealer had gone through the deck, from soda to hock, then went out and examined his injured horse. He found that the bullet had gone through a leg of the animal, crippling it.

Wild Jack, being a man of mercy, sent a bullet crashing through the head of his horse. Then he went up the street and found the cowboy who had shot his horse, reeling into The Texas Saloon.

Wild Jack called him some names. The cowboy went for his gun and Wild Jack placed a bullet neatly between his eyes.

Wild Jack reappeared later that evening, and won $200 playing faro.

Two days later, a crew of workmen began constructing a building of heavy planking, the Pawnee City Jail. It was to be of two rooms; the one in the rear was to have a small, barred window and would serve as the jail for the prisoners. A small room in front would be the marshal's office, for it developed that the new construction of Pawnee City provided for a paid marshal. The jail building, it also developed, was to be of two stories, the upper one to be the chambers and courtroom of the justice of the peace, Judson Drake.

The next issue of The Pawnee City Lance carried an article, announcing the appointment of the new city marshal, Jack Mason, known as Wild Jack Mason.

"One must use fire to fight fire," the story said. "The rowdy element has gotten completely out of hand and a man of strength is needed for the post of city marshal."

New Ring Says

'He's Mine, Girls'

NEW YORK—(UP)—One jewelry manufacturer has decided that men, too, should wear engagement rings.

The firm is manufacturing an

ing—a diamond engagement ring co-ordinated with the style of the one a man gives his girl.

Henry Peterson, president of the firm, said the acceptance ring was altogether fitting—that, after all, "many men currently wear and are proud of diamond rings."

The Daily Register, Harrisburg, Illinois Wednesday, March 27, 1957

Line Up Dealers For Edsel, Ford's Newest Auto

WASHINGTON (AP)—Richard E. Krafve is a man beating the drums for a product so secret only 500 people know what it will look like. The product is the new Edsel automobile, Ford's forthcoming challenge in the medium-priced automotive field. Krafve, general manager and vice president of the Edsel Division, is busy lining up the 1,200 dealers who will originally distribute the new car. "We've received more than 2,800 applications for dealerships," Krafve told the United Press in an interview. "But we're not waiting for people to come to us—we're asking banks and business leaders to recommend prospective dealers, too."

Debut in Fall
The Edsel, named for the son of the company's founder, will be introduced sometime next fall. "We have a target date but we can't reveal it yet," Krafve added. "There are too many things we might trip over before we arrive at a definite date."

The slim, baldish executive did reveal these few things about the new car whose styling has been revealed only to top Ford officials. —It will sell in four price brackets—the Ranger, Pacer, Corsair and Citation, the latter being the most expensive. Wheelbase will vary among these models. —It will be "distinctively but not radically styled." You'll be able to tell it's an Edsel from any angle you look at it," Krafve added.

Parts Interchangeable
—Mechanically, some of its parts will be interchangeable with the Lincoln, Ford and Mercury. The Edsel generally will rank between the Lincoln and Mercury in price. —Edsel prototypes have been undergoing tests for at least 14 months; the car itself was first conceived in 1954, when preliminary styling sketches were made. Present plans call for at least 200,000 Edsel units a year, produced in five plants located in Mahwah, N. J.; Somerville, Mass.; Wayne, Mich.; Louisville, Ky., and Milpitas, Calif. A second West Coast plant, in the Los Angeles area, will be picked in the near future.

The Somerville plant will turn out the Citation and Corsair models exclusively. The other assembly facilities will continue to build Ford or Mercurys along with the Edsel.

Three of the 50 most important tunnels in the world are in Michigan—a railroad tunnel at Port Huron and railway and vehicular tunnels at Detroit.

U. S. Posts 24-Hour Watch on North Atlantic

ARGENTIA, Newfoundland (AP)—The United States has posted a 24-hour-a-day "watch on the Atlantic" to trip up any Russian attack over the northerly ocean approaches.

Two major factors in the cold war dictated newly revealed U. S. Navy operations from this Newfoundland base, which dominates the North Atlantic and was the birthplace of the Atlantic Charter in 1941. They are:

—Development of long-range bombers like the Russian Bear which raised the possibility that attacks originating at Soviet Arctic bases might follow ocean courses southward, darting in on U. S. targets and outflanking continental radar warning lines in the north.

—A "definite increase" in deep water movements of Russian submarines which has accompanied vast expansion of the Red undersea fleet in recent years.

At the direction of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the Navy has been quietly operating a new "Atlantic Barrier Force" of picket ships and flying radar stations athwart the seaward approaches for the past nine months.

A similar force is being organized to patrol the Hawaii-Alaska

Farewell to 'Arms'

DETROIT (AP)—Mrs. Ora Jones put a revolver under her pillow when her husband, James, 42, began taking a shotgun to bed with him. But when he brought a rifle home she called police. Mrs. Jones was arrested for having an unregistered gun; Jones for threatening his wife. Police said that Jones also had filed the firing pin from his wife's pistol.

The showy tail of the tree squirrel is not solely used as a decorative feature. It is a vital necessity and its purpose is to maintain and correct the balance of the animal in its daring leaps from branch to branch.

area in an effort to seal off that possible approach to U. S. targets. Reporters witnessing the Atlantic Barrier operation from this base gained an impression that enemy planes trying to outflank the continental warning lines might be detected more than 1,500 miles distant from New York.

If so, that could mean three or more hours warning of a seaward approach—or as much alert as is expected from the Distant Early Warning line at the top of the continent in event of transoceanic attack.

Adm. Jerauld Wright, Atlantic Fleet commander who is here for a mission aboard one of the Constellation-type radar planes, said the Navy was "here to stop" any sneak attack crossing the Atlantic Barrier Force area.

Heavy-Footed Gas Hog?

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
DETROIT—(NEA)—If you're a heavy-foot-Harry on the accelerator you're paving the road with gasoline greenbacks.

In other words, if you want to improve your car's mileage get the lead out of your right foot when you drive.

This is the conclusion of studies of gas economy by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. and General Motors.

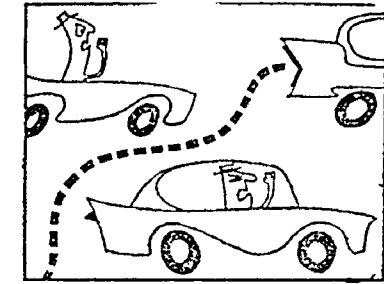

PT & T's motor vehicle supervisor A. A. Keefe set out to save $40,000 per year by getting an extra mile out of every gallon of gas used in his fleet of 1,000 passenger cars. He started out seeking a mechanical solution but ended up achieving his goal with courses in economy driving techniques.

Keefe got on to his solution when records showed that mileage on the same cars varied according to the driver. The most common driving fault was racing away with the flash of the green light. He explains:

"On one test we did just this and averaged eight miles per gallon. Repeating the test using less speed when leaving the signal we averaged 15.3 miles per gallon and took only seven seconds longer to cover the same mile."

The GM report explains: "In fast acceleration or racing the engine, all carburetors have a system of injecting additional fuel into the intake manifold to increase the air-fuel mixture briefly to provide the added surge."

Maintaining a steady speed and making minimum use of brakes are two more gas saving discoveries. In gas economy competition drivers remove their right shoe so their foot will be sensitive to maintaining even pressure on the gas pedal.

On the use of brakes the PT & T report explains:

"When you have to use brakes you waste the energy it took to get you moving and that means wasted gasoline."

Both GM and PT & T studies came up with a condemnation of "jack rabbit" driving. "Every time you speed up to get to the other lane you over-use the accelerator pump and it pumps gas right out the exhaust, using as high as 30 per cent needless fuel," the PT&T study reports.

Just plain speed is a hogish gas eater. For example, a car capable of 20 miles per gallon at 20 miles per hour gets 15.9 miles per gallon at 50 mph and only eight miles per gallon at 70 mph. A GM expert explains:

"The engine doesn't lose efficiency at higher speeds as many people think and thus eat more gas. The real consumer is wind resistance. The horsepower necessary to overcome wind resistance goes up as the cube of the speed. For example, if you double your speed the horsepower requirement goes up eight times. This is basic aerodynamics."

Proper shifting and use of the clutch can be another big gas saver. Shifting in to high too soon puts a strain on the engine, causing gas to be wasted. Delayed shifting is also bad. At 20 mph, for example, second gear used 20 per cent more gasoline than high gear. Automatic shifts are designed to make most efficient use of this factor.

A big gas eating habit is slipping the clutch to hold the car on hill stops. Using the brake instead of the clutch in one controlled test a PT&T driver added 3.4 miles per gallon.

Needless idling is another gas gobbler. GM's study revealed that low tire pressure, incorrect wheel alignment and engine in improper tune were among the most important mechanical causes of poor gas mileage.

The experts estimate that if a driver observes these gas-saving rules he can improve his mileage more than 30 per cent in some cases.

Coating Medicinal Tablet Is an Art

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(UP)—Skill in the coat business is not confined to tailors, according to Albert Manton and Edward W. Hepp, who have been outfitting medicinal tablets for a pharmaceutical manufacturer (Arner). They pointed out that the tablet tailor's job is a tough one, for too much or too little color can ruin

a batch containing 25,000 to 1,000,000 units, worth more than $50,000.

Too much color is about the same as no color at all as it will wash off previous applications. And too little will result in color variations that neither distributors nor consumers would accept.

Color is applied by pouring or spraying to rolling tablets to insure even color distribution
